Britain's Coast Shaken by Raids On North France

Terrific Explosions in Invasion Area Mark Night Attack by British Bombers

LONDON, May 9 (AP).—R.A.F. night raiders dropped block-busters on the German-occupied coast of Northern France tonight—causing explosions which shattered windows on the English side of the Channel—as a quick follow-up to extensive daylight attacks by more than 4,000 Allied planes.

The blasts echoing across the water from the French coast roused residents from their beds a few minutes after a huge fleet of R.A.F. bombers had passed eastward, darkening the starlit sky.

The din lasted ten minutes without a pause and the concussion was so great that the ground literally shook at Folkestone and neighboring towns. Dishes rattled in cupboards and furniture rocked as from an earthquake.

The bombing appeared centred on Calais and Dunkerque—20 to 30 miles across the Channel—but a light haze prevented observation.

The German-controlled Paris radio declared that Allied raiders had bombed the northwestern outskirts of Paris during the night, starting numerous large fires.

The broadcast, followed by a short time a British announcement that R.A.F. bombers had attacked targets in occupied territory during the night.

The daylight operations, spearheaded by American heavy bombers, dropped possibly 6,000 tons of explosives on scattered enemy installations.

German radio reports and the throb of engines over the Channel after dark indicated the attacks were continuing.

The pre-invasion barrage swept 500 miles eastward from Brest on the Brittany Peninsula to Luxembourg, and north of those points across a huge network of German communications feeding the Channel ports closest to Britain. In two days the Allies have smashed at least 16 major rail junctions, blasted that many key airfields, and broken a half-dozen rail bridges.

In the last three days of extraordinarily violent attack against scores of widely-separated targets it is estimated Allied planes based in Italy and Britain have flown about 12,500 sorties and dropped 17,500 tons of bombs.

PRE-DAWN RAIDS ON FIVE TARGETS

The opening phase of the 25th day's offensive consisted of pre-dawn attacks by R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. night fleets against five targets in

THE TIMES, London

News and Comment on International Events selected from The Times daily and published in The Daily Colonist by special arrangement with The Vancouver Daily Province.

(Copyright, 1944, by Southam Co.)

LONDON, May 9.—Commenting before the fall of Sevastopol, The Times said the Red Army had resumed its assault on the city, had broken the Germans' main defence lines and had taken the dominating heights above the city.

The Nazis had been driven back into the city, and Inkerman had been captured from them.

A two-day offensive had been highly successful and capture of the last important base held by the Germans in South Russia should not long be delayed, The Times had forecast.

Though there is a relative lull in other zones on the vast Eastern front, The Times' Moscow correspondent says big Russian forces are moving up on various fronts in preparation for an offensive which will parallel that of the Allies in the West.

Consequences that followed the return to the gold standard in 1925 are still fresh in mind. Neither Parliament nor the people, declares The Times, would tolerate a repetition of that mistake.

But agreement on the general principles set forth in the British white paper offers valuable international machinery, especially for dealing with monetary exchange rates, and contains nothing that conflicts with the declared British policy of economic expansion based on full employment for all.

The joint Anglo-American statement does not meet the British ideas in all particulars.

There is widespread reluctance here to tie the pound, however loosely, to gold. Nor is Britain anxious to assume the obligation to buy back sterling currency, which

Promise Deliverance To Axis-Held Europe

LONDON, May 9 (CP).—Promises of deliverance were broadcast from this invasion base to the people of The Netherlands and Belgium by their exiled leaders tonight on the eve of the fourth anniversary of Hitler's attack on the Lowlands.

Queen Wilhelmina, speaking over Radio Orange, told her people: "You will presently rebuild your undertakings," and she said she was planning a short rest soon, in anticipation of returning to a liberated Netherlands, "in order to be fresh and strong for the moment when you will need me."

To Cut Butter Ration Again

Postpone Valid Date Of Coupon for Week

OTTAWA, May 9 (CP).—The Prices Board today announced a temporary reduction in the butter ration next month by postponing until June 8 a coupon which otherwise would have become valid on June 1.

The reduction will be the same as that applied in March when each consumer was asked to give up a half-pound of butter.

The board also announced a return to the previous policy under which two butter coupons will fall due every two weeks instead of one coupon becoming valid every week as at present.

Butter coupons 62 and 63 will be valid on May 18, but the pound of butter bought with these coupons must last for three weeks, until June 8, when coupons 64 and 65 will become valid.

A corresponding reduction is being made in butter quotas to hotels, restaurants and other quota users catering to the transient public.

A cut in the butter ration had been forecast for several weeks, with Bureau of Statistics reports indicating continued heavy consumption and drain on reserve stocks.

K. H. Olive, administrator of dairy products, said that production was running behind last year. During January, February, March and April the decline in butter output was 12.4 per cent or nearly 8,000,000 pounds compared with the same period in 1943. There was no evidence of appreciable change in the trend.

Fall of Sevastopol Frees Two Big Red Armies for New Drive

Offensive Expected to Be Timed With Allied Invasion of Western Europe

LONDON, May 9 (AP).—The Red Army captured the Crimean fortress and port of Savastopol today after a 24-day siege, Premier-Marshal Stalin announced late tonight in a dramatic order of the day issued only a few hours after the conquest.

A three-day final assault cracked the stronghold garrisoned by thousands of exhausted German and Romanian troops.

The victory freed two big Russian armies for incorporation into Red Army lines deployed on the mainland in Romania and prewar Poland for an expected Spring-Summer offensive to be timed with an Allied invasion of Western Europe.

Stalin named 56 commanders for distinction in the offensive, which completed the liberation of the 10,000-square-mile Crimean Peninsula in 31 days. Among the officers cited was Marshal Alexander M. Vasilevsky, chief of the Red Army staff, who presumably planned the operation.

The swift seizure of Sevastopol by the Russians contrasted with the 250 days it took the Germans and Romanians to take the city earlier in the war, finally toppling it by July 3, 1942, after suffering 300,000 casualties.

The Russians broke through three zones of steel and concrete defences to take Sevastopol, Stalin said, adding that the Crimea now "is completely cleared of the German Fascist invaders."

MAXIMUM SALUTE OF 24 SALVOES

He ordered a maximum salute of 24 salvoes from Moscow's 324 victory guns.

Gen. Feodor I. Tolbukin's Fourth Ukraine Army and Gen. Andrei I. Yeremenko's Independent Maritime Army began the Crimean offensive April 8. Tolbukhin's forces attacking across the Sivash Sea 100 miles north of Sevastopol, and Yeremenko's troops striking 150 miles westward across the peninsula from Kerch.

The impressive triumph at Sevastopol gave the Russians the best port in the Black Sea, and reconquered another of the Soviet Black Sea fleet's home bases.

$160,000 Spending Spree at Sydney

SYDNEY MINES, N.S., May 9 (CP).—Their pockets bulging with lump-sum wage increases, coal miners of Sydney Mines and nearby Florence have been on a $160,000 buying spree since the week-end, and neither of the two collieries in the towns has worked since Friday.

Liquor stores did a brisk business on Monday, and there were reports that as high as $36 was paid bootleggers for a dozen quarts of beer.

The celebration was expected to end tonight, with the miners resuming operations tomorrow.

Rain May Check Alberta's Fires

EDMONTON, May 9 (CP).—Checking bush fires and bringing much-needed relief to parched gardens a steady rain started falling in the Edmonton district this afternoon. At 8 o'clock tonight a wet snow was still coming down with prospects of an all-night soaking. Precipitation appeared to be quite general in the Edmonton district.

T. F. Bielgen, provincial forestry director, had said earlier a new forest fire was raging out of control in the H. H. Ross & Sons timber limits south of Grande Prairie. This brought to six the number of fires burning in the Grande Prairie district. Four of them were out of control.

FLAMING PLANE CRASHES

SPOKANE, Wash., May 9 (AP).—A two-motored United States Army airplane crash-landed in flames tonight at Calkins airfield, a schooling field, and officials there said first information indicated there were four men aboard and all were safe. The plane came in fast and was aflame when it struck, said a field official. Its home base was not immediately determined.

No Representative Of Canada at Meet

OTTAWA, May 9 (CP).—Finance Minister Ilsley said today in the Commons that the Bank of Canada had no deposits with the Bank of International Settlements and therefore would not be represented at a forthcoming meeting of the institution in Berne, Switzerland.

Canada, however, as part of the Empire, has a share in the bank's deposits.

Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House leader, had asked last week whether the Bank of Canada would be represented at the Berne meeting where he understood German bank representatives would also be in attendance. He also asked for details in connection with Canada's interest in the bank.

Small Powers' Role Key Topic

LONDON, May 9 (CP).—The role of the smaller powers in a postwar world security system was one of the key topics before the British Commonwealth Prime Ministers' conference today—a topic of vital interest to the overseas Dominions which themselves rank as smaller powers.

The "big four" of the United Nations—Britain, the United States, Russia and China—are expected to have the major say in the world set-up during the armistice period, as they have had in the conduct of the war.

But the Moscow declaration of October, 1943, established the principle of participation by "all peace-loving states" in an organization designed to maintain peace.

This participation, so far as the smaller powers are concerned, may be achieved on a regional or functional basis.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada has championed the functional system in the past. Under this system, countries with special interests in certain areas or problems should have the major say in respect of such matters, instead of the general assembly of representatives of all nations having an equal voice.

It is known, for instance, that Canada will want an important voice in whatever regional authority may be set up for the Western Hemisphere within the ambit of the world organization.

Who Will Value Freedom?

Only he who has lost his freedom knows its true value. To citizens of the occupied countries of Europe, four years and more under German oppression, freedom is the first essential of life, worth more than life itself. They know. They have lived without freedom. Here in Canada we have not known the personal threat of conquest. We have had no overlords, armed and sullen, telling us what to do. We have lived quite literally on the fat of a rich land. But over the English Channel, in the Lowlands invaded four years ago today, it is different. The fight for freedom is personal there. There is no one willing to be neutral, or to sit on a fence. It is the same fight, for Canada or for Holland. We must fight with all that we have, with all that we are. Buy Victory Bonds, so that freedom will again become a reality for all mankind. The time is drawing short. Every bond counts; every bond is a blow at the enemy. Put Victory first.

Victoria Skipper Given Civic Medallion at Local Ceremony

Victorians paid tribute to the tenacity and courage of their own naval hero when they honored at a civic luncheon and presentation ceremony yesterday Lt.-Cmdr. E. T. "Ted" Simmons, D.S.O., D.S.C., captain of the Victoria-built frigate H.M.C.S. Beacon Hill.

The reception and luncheon was held at the Empress Hotel, and the presentation of the city's silver medallion, also held by several heroes of this war, was made on the steps of the City Hall. In addition to Mayor Andrew McGavin and Mrs. McGavin, city aldermen and their wives and representatives of the armed services here attended the functions.

Mayor Andrew McGavin was chairman at the luncheon, and in his remarks, said: "This luncheon today is to do honor to one of Victoria's sons who has shown great courage and skill in carrying out his naval duties, and we are glad to do him honor.

"Lt.-Cmdr. Simmons has set a fine example to our youth, and we are proud to pay him this little tribute.

"May I also say that we are pleased to have his mother with us. She must be very proud of the fine record of her son."

In proposing the toast to Simmons, Capt. P. Barry German, R.C.N., said: "Victoria is very fortunate in having Lt.-Cmdr. Simmons in command of H.M.C.S. Beacon Hill. He has proven himself a very brave and courageous seaman and a very efficient officer."

Captain German also thanked citizens for what he termed, "their very gracious reception and repeated courtesies, not only to the officers and men of H.M.C.S. Beacon Hill, but to the whole command."

Responding to the toast, Simmons said, "I appreciate from the bottom of my heart, on behalf of my mother, my distinguished first officer and his wife, not only what you are doing for myself, but for my ship's company."

Following the luncheon at the Empress Hotel, Simmons and civic dignitaries drove to the City Hall where the visitors' book was signed in the mayor's office. Those signing the book were Simmons, Mrs. E. C. Simmons, his mother, Lieut. Hall Tingley, first lieutenant H.M.C.S. Beacon Hill, Capt. P. B. German, Brigadier J. F. Preston, M.C., and Group Capt. D. B. Hobbs, D.S.O., D.F.C.

Many citizens gathered outside the City Hall for the presentation ceremony, and in addressing them Mayor Andrew McGavin said, "It is my privilege this afternoon to join in paying a small tribute to Lt.-Cmdr. Simmons.

"This Victoria boy has brought honor to the city, and further honors to the Royal Canadian Navy by displays of courage and ability of the highest order in the performance of his duties.

"Simmons has been awarded the Distinguished Service Order and the Distinguished Service Cross, and

Wage Boost For Police

In spite of the vigorous protest of Mayor Andrew McGavin, chairman, the city police commission yesterday passed a motion implementing an earlier resolution granting a 10 per cent salary increase for all members of the police department from third class constables to the chief, and increasing the pay of probationers from $97.85 to $115 per month. All increases are to be retroactive to February 1.

"A 10 per cent increase for the police will cause dissatisfaction in all other departments of the city. Such a raise was recommended last year, and I opposed it then. If you have not got the money, you cannot pay it out," Mayor McGavin stated.

General Election to Be Held In Eire as Result of Defeat Of De Valera by Single Vote

Transport Amalgamation Bill Turned Down by Poll of 64-63

DUBLIN, May 10 (Wednesday) (CP).—It was officially announced early today that a general election would be held in Eire—probably May 30—the result of the defeat of Prime Minister Eamon de Valera's Government on a transport bill by a vote of 64 to 63 in the Dail.

Defeat came on second reading of the bill.

The bill would provide for amalgamation of Eire's two biggest transport companies—the Great Southern Railway and the Dublin United Transport Company—which have a virtual monopoly of the country's rail and road transport.

A new company would be formed with a capital of £25,000,000 (about $112,500,000) of which £20,000,000 would be Government-guaranteed debenture stock. The Government would appoint the chairman of the new company, who would be charged with carrying out the Government transport policy—in effect, nationalization of transport in Eire.

De Valera's Government Party took the minority spot last June after the first wartime general election ended with the Fianna Fail holding 67 seats to the Opposition's 71. This was a portent of rough going on issues such as that which resulted in the one-vote defeat.

NEUTRALITY POLICY NOT A FACTOR

Eire observers hastened to say that De Valera's neutrality policy

Enemy Bases in New Guinea Blasted

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, May 10 (Wednesday) (AP).—Allied bombers again have unloaded heavy cargoes of bombs on the enemy's last remaining bases in New Guinea, hitting the Wakde area 120 miles northwest of Hollandia and other important points at the western end of New Guinea, headquarters announced today.

The total enemy dead in the Hollandia area has reached 871, with 183 others captured, it said.

Allies Push On in Italy

Advance After Nazi In Surprise Retreat

NAPLES, May 9 (CP-Reuter's).—Following up a surprise German withdrawal from a mountainous salient near the Adriatic end of the main front line traversing Italy, Allied forces have advanced their lines to a depth of nearly ten miles.

German troops in a hasty pullout to the west abandoned vital heights covering a main north-south highway running through Palena, 35 miles inland from the Adriatic.

There was no official explanation of the Nazi withdrawal but presumably its primary purpose was to straighten and shorten the enemy lines.

Before the week-end withdrawal, the Nazis held a salient which bulged the front line to a depth of ten miles in an arc between Civitella and Castel di Sangro. Civitella is 18 miles southwest of Ortona.

Effect of the enemy retreat is that the new line will probably run from Civitella through Palena and then almost due south to Castel di Sangro.

First hint of the German move westward came on Saturday night. Forward Allied patrols heard a series of explosions and demolitions in the Palena and Letto Palena area on the north-south highway running from the Adriatic to link with another road near Castel di Sangro. Letto Palena is a village two miles northeast of Palena.

Allied patrols pushed forward to investigate. In the darkness they discovered the Germans had gone. The manoeuvre enabled Eighth Army forces to move up the Aventino Valley.

The Germans pulled out under cover of a heavy artillery barrage which brought an immediate response from the Allied gunners on the neighboring heights. The Nazis demolished bridges and houses and a tunnel.

Allied troops now hold positions around the southern buttresses of the Mount Maiella Range, which towers 9,000 feet high. This range lies between Vaentino and Pescara River Valleys.

Threaten Blacklist In Postwar Period

LONDON, May 9 (CP).—Neutral nations which fail now to co-operate with the Allies in their effort to choke Hitler's blockade-crippled war industries face the threat of a postwar blacklist, it was strongly intimated by the Earl of Selborne, Minister of Economic Warfare, in a speech today to the House of Lords.

"Any neutrals who now send Germany raw material are simply prolonging the war, and we shall certainly continue to do our best to prevent that," he said.

Verdict Today In Ford Case

Board Will Make Its Decision Public

OTTAWA, May 9 (CP).—The National Wartime Labor Relations Board today announced decision in the dispute between the Ford Motor Co. of Canada and its Windsor employees to the parties concerned and said the terms would be made public tomorrow night.

It was assumed that the decision dealt particularly with grievance procedure—the main issue now between the company and union—but just how much compulsion accompanied the decision was not clear.

Announcement that the judgment had been agreed on by the boards was made to newspapermen by M. M. Maclean, chief executive officer of the board, who spoke on behalf of the chairman, Mr. Justice G. B. O'Connor.

Mr. Maclean said the judgment would be made public in Ottawa at 7.15 p.m. tomorrow, simultaneous with its announcement at a meeting of the union to be held in Windsor. Both parties had agreed to keep the terms confidential until that time.

Questioned on whether the communication made to the parties today was an "order," Mr. Maclean replied: "We call it a decision."

The dispute, which started April 20 and affected 14,000 workers, resulted from a difference of opinion of the procedure to be followed in handling employees' grievances. Shortly after work halted the company announced termination of its contract with the union and the issue of whether the old contract was to be reinstated, as the union asked, or a new contract negotiated as the company wanted, became the primary issue.

Canada Has Found Financial Independence, Asserts McGeer

OTTAWA, May 9 (CP).—G. G. McGeer, Liberal member for Vancouver Burrard constituency in British Columbia, said today in the Commons that Canada has found her financial independence during these war years and he hoped that "no Government will ever say we have to borrow abroad to finance Canada's development when this war is over."

Speaking during resumed debate on the bill to revise the Bank Act, Mr. McGeer said Canada's 12,000,000 people had the resources to make them the richest in the world, but in the past Canada had been "misguided" by financial advisers.

When the second Great War started Canada's financial advisers said the country could only finance a $100,000,000-a-year war, said Mr. McGeer. However, when France fell and Britain stood alone the Canadian Government had declared that "no monetary consideration" was to stand in the way of the war effort.

As a result of the Government's stand, the Dominion's war budget was raised from $100,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 over a period of a few years. Canada loaned Britain $700,000,000 and placed $1,000,000,000 worth of Canadian goods at the disposal of the United Kingdom. To do this, Canada did not borrow money in Europe or in Britain.

"Is anybody going to say that out of that experience Canada has not found her financial independence?" asked Mr. McGeer. "Are we going to go crawling to some international banker for money to put our people to work after this war for a better Canada?"

Participating in the Bank Bill debate beside Mr. McGeer were A. M. Nicholson (C.C.F., Mackenzie), F. D. Shaw (B.C., Red Deer), and Mrs. D. W. Nielsen (Unity-North Battleford).

Mr. McGeer said:

"I have no hesitation in saying that if we are going to sustain full employment or higher employment after the war and avoid the disastrous consequences of a postwar de-

Victoria Area Still Behind In Loan Quota

Vancouver Island is still 30 per cent below the objective with four days to go in the Sixth Victory Loan.

Ladysmith still leads the Island with 125 per cent of its quota, and has so far subscribed $175,050. Courtenay-Comox has made an almost 30 per cent jump in the past two days and now stands at 79.6 per cent of its objective, having so far subscribed $398,200.

Lower Vancouver Island Rural and Gulf Islands are going ahead, but need 23.8 per cent of their objective to reach the set quota. To date they have raised $571,500 of the required $750,000.

Latest figures for Vancouver Island units, with quota percentages required, are:

Unit	Quota	To Date	%
Greater Victoria	$3,700,000	$3,929,556	31.9
Lower V.I. Rural and Gulf Islands	750,000	571,500	23.8

MILLION DOLLARS MORE ON MONDAY

A faster tempo in the British Columbia-Yukon Victory Loan campaign on Tuesday indicated a desire on the part of the public to reach this area's quota by Saturday night when the three-week campaign ends, The Canadian Press reported yesterday.

Almost one million dollars more rolled in than on Monday in general canvass.

Two more units went over the top—making nine all told. At least two more will definitely make the grade today. And one unit won its second pennant.

Vancouver Division soared so close to the top that it is expected to attain its public quota any hour today.

Every unit in British Columbia today is more than halfway. Sixteen are above the three-quarter mark, five of these topping 90 per cent. The Vancouver suburban area has three of its four units over.

Several sub-units soared over their objectives.

Receipts from the public on Tuesday totaled $2,700,000 from 13,613

29-Year-Old General Leads Nazi Air Forces in West

LONDON, May 9 (AP)—Hitler has appointed 29-year-old Maj.-Gen. Oberst Pelz as chief of the Western Nazi air forces and charged him with building up a striking force to parry the Allied invasion, a reliable European underground source said tonight.

Pelz, youngest general in the German army, is regarded as an air genius and is a prime favorite of Hitler, the informant said.

At the same time the Nazi air force in the West was reported to have been reorganized into three corps—two composed of fighters and one of bombers.

The reorganization is part of a German effort to strengthen the air force in the face of great losses in production through Allied bombing.

Previously a German air corps bombers, fighters, transports and reconnaissance aircraft.

Top-ranking American airmen said the Germans have adopted a "miser" policy of air warfare at the expense of both the civilian population and vital industry to build up a strong anti-invasion air force.

Whatever the Germans do, even the most conservative British and American air leaders believe that the Allies can win complete control of the air in from seven to ten days after start of the invasion.

Here is the air war picture as seen through the eyes of the men who are running it:

The Allied aim at present is threefold:

1. To wipe out German aircraft reserves by bombing factories and airfields so that when the German first-line fighting strength is destroyed there will be nothing to replace it.

2. To hamper and obstruct German army communications along the West Wall by continuous bombings.

3. To soften—not completely smash—the Nazi fixed defences by bombing.

All Allied air sources confirm that production of aircraft has been cut by precision bombings below the point where the German air force can carry on full-scale air war and survive.

So the Germans are only defending their most precious targets when public opinion forces them to do so.

They are making no attempt to defend the outer fringes of Europe or even large parts of the homeland.

In this way Goering is able to build up his first-line fighter strength for D-Day despite falling production.

Most of the R.A.F. and American air brains believe the Germans will gamble their entire air force in a desperate attempt to block the invasion.

If everything is thrown into the attack and lost it means the Allies will be able to roar almost at will over every part of Germany with the civilian population at the mercy of air attacks.

three countries. Some 750 Lancasters and Halifaxes attacked Brest, French coast fortifications, Haine St. Pierre in Belgium; Osnabruck and an unidentified Ruhr objective in Germany.

Six United States heavy bombers and seven United States fighters were lost in morning attacks on three rail yards and eight airfields in France, Belgium and Luxembourg, a communique said. Five German fighters were shot down.

For the third straight day a fleet of 1,000 American heavy bombers, escorted by an equal number of fighters, was hurled into the campaign aimed to facilitate a land invasion. They dumped 2,500 tons of bombs on targets in Belgium, France and Luxembourg.

The R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. assaults delivered in darkness cost ten bombers. An R.C.A.F. communique said eight Canadian heavy bombers, a fighter-bomber and a fighter were lost during operations through Monday and Monday night.

The Canadian Bomber Group concentrated chiefly on the rail yards at Haine St. Pierre. The attack on Brest was aimed at an airfield and seaplane base.

Planes from the Iroquois, Goose, Thunderbird, Snowy Owl, Alouette and Leaside Squadrons of the R.C.A.F. Bomber Group hammered at the Belgian yards.

ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS SILENCED

Preceded by more than 200 fighter-bombers which silenced anti-aircraft guns and sent scores of German gunners running for shelter, strong forces of American medium bombers attacked military objectives in the coastal area across the Channel.

At the same time light bombers raced inland to Aerschot, Belgium, 30 miles northeast of Brussels, and attacked important railway yards.

Approximately 250 medium and light bombers were used. One fighter failed to return.

R.A.F. medium bombers attacked rail yards at Valenciennes, where the Germans first broke through the "Little Maginot" line four years ago. Returning R.A.F. flyers told of 9,000-foot smoke columns and vivid red flashes on the ground after their bombs had hit, suggesting hits on freight cars packed with munitions.

The latest round of attacks threw British mediums against railway yards at Busigns and medium and light bombers at military objectives in Northern France, as well as a bridge crossing the River Seine near Rouen. British and American fighters covered the operations.

The Air Ministry announced Typhoons were over Europe in greater strength than ever before, attacking targets ranging from railway installations and ammunition dumps to river locks and bridges. After unloading their bombs the Typhoons took to ground strafing, shooting up locomotives and river craft.

The Allied expeditionary air force announced more than 800 fighters and fighter-bombers were employed in Tuesday's operations and only one failed to return.

Two medium bombers were missing from the entire day's missions, in which more than 450 of these bombers dropped more than 800 tons of bombs.

General Pearkes Pays Tribute to Volunteers at Vernon

A "magnificent response" to his plea to "go active," resulting in more than 2,500 officers, N.C.O.'s and men volunteering for overseas service, brought warm tribute from Major-General G. R. Pearkes, V.C., general officer commanding in chief, Pacific Command, when the volunteers paraded at Vernon. They formed The 13th Brigade, under command of Brigadier W. H. S. Macklin.

Six hundred men of the Winnipeg Grenadiers stationed at Gordon Head also volunteered for overseas service and were scheduled to join the brigade.

General Pearkes said to them: "'Green light' was a code name used by this brigade when it went to Kiska. Once again you have the 'go-ahead' signal.

"Good-bye. God bless you. May you return soon, happy and victorious."

The number of volunteers increased from 400 to more than 2,500 in a month. Once again, the general said, he had reason to be proud of Pacific Command.

The appeal was directed recently to the home defence troops on the basis that Canadian divisions overseas would welcome a reserve of well-trained, seasoned troops.

"You have given your answer," he told the men. "The test, the only test of a man's character today, is the strength and sincerity of his desire to fight the enemy now and to bring to just punishment all their wicked leaders.

"Great is your determination in this respect."

Zoning of Fire Protection Fund To Be Discussed at Forest Inquiry

One of the subjects likely to be discussed in detail during the British Columbia forest inquiry will be the fire protection fund, and the argument that costs should be zoned in order that areas of low cost might not suffer from high costs elsewhere.

This was indicated at yesterday's sitting of the inquiry when C. D. Orchard, chief forester, was testifying. He stated the forest protection fund currently amounted to abput $750,000 a year, of which the Government provided $300,000 and the industry, through the tax of 6 cents an acre on timber land, about $250,000. He doubted whether the industry should be asked to pay more until the Government contribution was increased.

P. W. Wilson, of the B.C. Loggers' Association, objected to introduction of figures on fire protection in the Weyerhauser plantings, and Major L. R. Andrews, of the B.C. Lumber & Shingle Manufacturers' Association, declared money paid into the fund by the industry at the Coast was spent largely in the Interior. When Mr. Orchard replied: "You can't break down British Columbia into little provinces," Major Andrews answered this was already being done in other respects.

Mr. Justice Sloan, presiding, remarked that if the insurance principle were invoked fire protection costs should be spread over the whole industry. But in this case fire protection was a service, and he suggested the charge should be in relation to the service rendered.

The view of the Forest Service, Mr. Orchard said, had been that costs should be spread.

ZONING WOULD BRING HIGH COSTS IN INTERIOR

If zoning were adopted, the charge would be extremely low in the Queen Charlottes and on the west coast of Vancouver Island, where fire risk was very low; would rise sharply on the east coast of the Island, and would rise progressively from the Mainland coast through to the Southern Interior, where it would reach a peak. That peak might be so high as to make it impossible to hold timber land in some parts, Mr. Orchard said.

Cross-examination of the chief forester on this question by representatives of forest industries was indicated.

Describing "stand-by" crews and giving examples of their speed in attacking fires, Mr. Orchard suggested 1,500 men in crews of ten men stationed throughout the province would be a good start in more efficient fire protection. He emphasized the value of speedy attack in preventing extensive damage, and gave examples of the work of stand-by crews. In normal times it would be possible to obtain men for this work, particularly students desiring to work in the Summer.

He estimated off-hand that $1,500,000 could be spent to advantage, when the equipment was available, in acquiring needed tractors, tank cars and so on. The department had never been able, Mr. Orchard continued, to use airplanes and radio to full advantage.

Improved fire fighting technique meant higher costs but greater benefits in timber saved by putting fires out, he said.

In the forester's view, British Columbia forests should be operated as a business, with direct forest revenue going to the department for management, protection and so on, the unused balance being regarded as profit. Income would be between three and four millions a year, and would provide two to three millions more for the work of the Forest Branch than at present.

CONTRASTS AMERICAN AND B.C. MANPOWER

He contrasted manpower strength in United States forests and British Columbia forests, stating that in the Creston area in 1940 British Columbia had one man to 114,000 acres, compared to one man for 22,000 acres in a comparable American area. The average for British Columbia was one man to 500,000 acres.

On 4,754,000 acres, the United States used 214 men, while British Columbia on 3,380,000 acres had 47 men and one-twentieth of the equipment. Where the Americans had $10,000 damage on 5,826 acres, British Columbia lost $415,000 on more than 220,000 acres. Cash expenditure to fight fires in the United States area, plus damage, amounted to $207,000, compared with $80,000 in British Columbia.

From these figures it was deduced that for $1.75 an acre, the Americans saved $273,000 in natural resources in one fire season.

Principle weakness of British Columbia forest protection, Mr. Orchard stated, was lack of funds for the prevention and suppression of fires in their incipiency.

At the morning session, cross-examination of the chief forester by J. E. McMullen, K.C., counsel for the C.P.R. in British Columbia and vice-president of the E. & N. Railway, was completed. Discussion of forest protection followed.

Mr. Orchard expressed the belief that the helicopter was destined to play a vital part in future fire fighting, making it possible to take crews to fires independent of roads. He told H. W. Davey, commission counsel, that funds available for fire protection were insufficient.

The inquiry adjourned at the conclusion of yesterday's sitting until Thursday, to enable some of the principals to attend the funeral of Hon. A. Wells Gray in New Westminster today.

Japanese Beaten Back by Chinese

CHUNGKING, May 9 (CP).—The Chinese said tonight they had beaten back two Japanese forces trying to capture the ancient city of Loyang from the south, but they announced that other invading forces had scored gains in a westward drive 30 miles south of this battleground in Honan Province.

Fighting around Lungmen, ten miles south of Loyang, the Chinese "completely repulsed" a Japanese force which had crossed to the west bank of the Yi River southeast of Lungmen, and inflicted "heavy casualties" on invaders on the east bank, tonight's Chinese communique stated.

The communique said the Japanese had captured Tengfeng, 30 miles southwest of Chengchow.

The Japanese employed tanks in their westward thrust which was engaged by the Chinese as it smashed from captured Linju toward Iyang, 20 miles to the west, the bulletin said.

Part of the Soviet main strategy must be the capture of Lwow, which is the Germans' key to the Balkans. This enemy base must be taken before entry through the Carpathians into Czecho-Slovakia becomes possible.

In the north, the Soviet High Command keeps the German general staff guessing whether the next offensive will be launched across White Russia, northward of the Pripet Marshes, or whether there will be a great outflanking movement by way of Kovel and Brest-Litovsk.

Dealing with the monetary policy which is to be debated in Parliament this week, The Times, editorially, says the need for international co-operation is self-evident.

What the House of Commons has to consider is whether a compromise, embodied in the recent Anglo-American statement provides sufficient basis for effective co-operation without endangering vital British interests.

A monetary policy is not an end in itself, but only an essential instrument of economic policy.

Another Czech village has been wiped out by the Germans and 370 persons—men, women and children—burned to death.

The village was a prosperous little community known as Czaky Malin, colonized by Czechs in the Rowne district of the Ukraine.

According to news reaching London from Moscow a Czecho-Slovak commission investigated its destruction and found that, possibly because the Czechs had harbored some Russians, the Nazis set fire to buildings, shot those trying to escape and marched off the women and children.

Public investment up to Tuesday amounted to $42,440,250 from 208,802 individual purchases. This is 86.61 per cent of the public quota and is only $6,559,750 short of the $49,000,000 general canvass objective.

Large applications reached $45,958,550 from 364 applications. This leaves only $41,450 to come from that source to reach the quota in that class.

From all sources, including this area's percentage of national applications, returns up to Tuesday were $107,103,700 from 206,166 individuals. This is 89.25 per cent of the overall $120,000,000 quota. It requires but $12,896,300 to reach that quota.

Capt. H. C. Hansen Dies at Seattle

SEATTLE, May 9 (AP)—Captain H. C. Hansen, 75-year-old colorful Northwest shipping figure who died yesterday, will be buried here on Friday. He was a former manager of the Willapa Harbor Stevedoring Company and builder-master of many sailing ships years ago. During the first Great War he established shipyards in Tacoma and Victoria, B.C. Eight windjammers he constructed became famous in Pacific trade routes and one now bearing the name Tradewind is still in South Pacific service.

Provinces Not in Debt for Relief

OTTAWA, May 9 (CP).—The provinces are not considered to be in debt to the Dominion Government for $322,776,376 spent by the Federal Labor Department on provincial relief between 1930 and 1940, inclusive. This information was tabled today in the Commons by Labor Minister Mitchell for Rev. E. G. Hansell (S.C., MacLeod).

A Labor Department spokesman, amplifying the return, explained that this money was granted to provinces under Dominion relief legislation and was non-recoverable.

He added that under the same legislation provinces could also borrow money to meet bond maturities. Such money was recoverable. He said he could not say immediately what provinces had borrowed.

Russian Front

not yet acknowledged the loss of Sevastopol, but Axis broadcasts began preparing the people for such an event today. One announcer quoted a High Command spokesman saying that Sevastopol "no longer has any operational or strategic importance" because the mainland front had moved far to the west away from the Crimea.

The final storming of Sevastopol carried the Russian infantrymen across Malakhov Hill.

They had to blast suicide corps of Germans from three-storied defence works carved into the bluffs. Many of these caves had served the Russians as ammunition depots and defence headquarters in the previous siege.

It is estimated that 100,000 Axis troops were slain or captured in the Crimean offensive.

The exact number of German and Romanian defenders killed or captured in the Russian assault was not immediately made known by Moscow, but it was estimated that 25,000 enemy troops were holding out at Sevastopol before the final Red Army charge Sunday.

By mid-April, when Russian artillery first began pouring shells into the city, 40,000 prisoners had been taken by the Russians in their swift two-way advance across the peninsula, and it is likely that at least that many Germans and Romanians also were killed.

For weeks the Russians had worn down the German-Romanian garrison inside the city by steady artillery and aerial poundings, and Soviet naval planes had taken a heavy toll of Axis troops trying to escape by ship to Romania.

German troops first reached the Sevastopol area and tried to take the city on November 8, 1941. Hurled back by Russian troops and big detachments of Soviet marines, the Germans dug in on a semi-circle from Kacha on the north to Balaklava in the south.

FINAL REDUCTION BEGAN MAY 20

The final reduction of the Russian stronghold began May 20, 1942, when the Germans hurled 1,000 planes daily against the city, dropping 2,500 to 6,000 bombs a day.

On June 5, the infantry charged, seven German and two Romanian divisions and the Nazi 18th Tank Group under Field Marshal Gen. Erich Fritz von Manstein—a total of 300,000 men, 400 tanks and 900 planes. But when they poured across the pitted fields the bearded, hollow-eyed Russian marines and foot soldiers came out of their foxholes and began a desperate battle which lasted 27 days.

In the last 25 days of siege Moscow estimated German casualties at 150,000 with 60,000 killed. Russian losses throughout the eight-month siege were estimated at 11,395 dead, 21,099 wounded, 8,300 missing.

But most important of all in the Russian Sevastopol stand was the upsetting of the Germans' 1942 timetable. The eastward onrush of the Germans that year eventually reached the Volga River, but that was where they met their first great disaster—at Stalingrad. Since then the Russians steadily have moved westward, swinging their massive armies into line from the Baltic to the Black Sea for a supreme effort this Summer.

Conspicuously absent in Stalin's citation was Gen. Andrei I. Yeremenko, commander of the Independent Maritime Army which participated in the early phase of the Crimean offensive. His troops reached the Sevastopol area in the south April 19 with the capture of historic Balaklava.

It was thus indicated that Yeremenko and his army already have been shifted to the mainland for the big Spring-Summer push against Germany.

No essential changes occurred elsewhere on the front, said Moscow's broadcast communique recorded by the Soviet monitor.

their high awards are not easily won.

"On behalf of the City Council, it is my pleasure to present Simmons with the silver medallion of our city. This is a small permanent souvenir of our admiration for his qualities of leadership and courage, which serve as an example to every member of our fighting forces.

"Please accept this medallion, Lt.-Cmdr. Simmons, with our good wishes for your future."

GLAD TO BE BACK IN VICTORIA AGAIN

Addressing citizens from the steps of the City Hall, Simmons told of the pleasure it gave him to be back in Victoria again after an absence of four years, and added that he was particularly pleased to take over the Victoria-built frigate Beacon Hill.

He thanked citizens for what they were doing for the ship, and said, "In return we will do our utmost to fight your ship the way you would have us fight it."

Captain German told citizens that Simmons had proven himself a great hero, a great seaman and a naval officer who came out of his responsibilities in a capable manner. He paid tribute to the R.C.N.V.R., who, he said, were truly making a great name for the Royal Canadian Navy.

The Esquimalt Military Band under Bandmaster Bowers played during the arrival of the official party from the Empress Hotel, and again after the ceremony.

Many citizens took the opportunity of greeting Simmons personally and shaking his hand and the naval officer kissed three little children who were presented to him.

Mrs. E. C. Simmons, mother of the naval hero, was at his side during the ceremony, and radiated the happiness that was hers in having her brave son with her again. Lieut. Hall Tingley, R.C.N.V.R., and his wife, were also in the official party.

pression, Government spending must continue on almost as large a scale in the period of adjustment as during the war years."

SOMETHING "RADICALLY" WRONG IN SYSTEM

Mr. Nicholson said it was proved "pretty conclusively" in peacetime that there was something "radically" wrong with the banking system which should have made available to the people the money and credit to produce goods and to purchase the goods produced.

Mr. Shaw said that during the depression public works were curtailed and the income of many was reduced or discontinued. The banks played no part whatever in attempting, through the issuance of credit, to better the situation.

Mrs. Nielsen said proposals in the bill did not adequately meet the credit needs of farmers. She said she hoped members from farming communities would see some improved method of dealing with farm needs was incorporated in the bill. The legislation as now proposed left farmers at the mercy of the chartered banks.

She said there was emerging a new condition and it was possible to have an alignment between the capitalist and Socialist forces of the world so they could work together for their own good.

After the war Canada needed the co-operation of the Soviet Union.

She said she wanted to see social advances achieved peacefully. If Socialism was made the issue now, the forces of reaction would take up the challenge. Those insisting on Socialism now would have much to answer for, and she said she did not believe all C.C.F. members agreed with the socialization policies being advocated by that party.

If reactionary forces were successful in combatting Socialism now, reaction would interfere with world co-operation which was so necessary to Canada's future welfare.

She said she was not against socialization of the banks because she approved of what banks had done. She said she believed, however, the first essential at present was unity to win the war.

Douglas Abbott, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Ilsley, said that when a bank made a loan it didn't create new money, but it simply increased the amount of money owned by a certain section of the community.

The banks could not create credit for themselves, but they could create credit for the public.

Mr. Abbott said that when a man borrowed $1,000 from a bank he gave his note as security. The bank in return placed $1,000 in the borrower's account. The bank's profit would be the difference in the interest charged for the loan and the interest paid on the borrower's account. If the borrower withdrew the money and paid it to others, the money would eventually find its way back to the banking system and interest would have to be paid on it.

Mr. Abbott said the suggestion that the Government borrow its money from the chartered banks was not a sound one.

Wing Cmdr. David T. French, R.C.A.F., 28-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George T. French, 2144 Moss Street, has been awarded the D.F.C., according to word received by cable.

Besides piloting bombers in raids on the Ruhr, Duesseldorf, Wuppertal, Krefeld, Mulheim and Dortmund, he took part in a much-publicized raid on the Brenner Pass. Details of the exploit for which the award was made have not yet been received here.

Over Wuppertal his aircraft suffered extensive damage from flak and he received a foot injury. Previously with the City of Bradford Squadron, he is now O.C. of the "Ghost Squadron."

Wing Cmdr. French born in Calgary and a science graduate of the University of Alberta, enlisted in 1939, and after graduation was an instructor until going overseas one and one-half years ago.

His parents first came to Victoria 30 years ago, and returned here six years ago. He spent leaves here.

Lt.-Col. John Murray Passes

NELSON, B.C., May 9 (CP)—Lt.-Col. John Murray, 62, former captain quartermaster in charge of ordnance at Vernon Military Training Camp, died yesterday at his home in South Slocan, 25 miles west of here, from a self-inflicted bullet wound, a coroner's jury found last night.

Mrs. Murray said she found her husband lying in an upstairs room, a revolver by his side and a pool of blood on the floor. He died an hour later.

Born in Liverpool, Lt.-Col. Murray came to Canada in 1889 and settled in Creston, B.C. For several years he conducted logging and lumbering operations in the Slocan Valley. A First Great War veteran, Lt.-Col. Murray served three years in this war, as officer commanding at Vernon and later as captain quartermaster in charge of all ordnance.

Evidence at the inquest revealed he had been despondent since he was placed on the Canadian Army retirement list in November.

During the First Great War, Lt.-Col. Murray served with the Royal Army Service Corps at Amiens, Gallipoli and in Egypt.

Besides his widow, he is survived by a son, Gnr. John Murray, R.C.A., and a daughter, Mary Caroline Murray, of Toronto.

ASK DECISION

OTTAWA, May 9 (CP)—The International Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen today asked the National War Labor Board for a supplementary decision covering overtime to dining car employees on the Canadian Pacific Railway. The board recently issued a decision in which it directed payment of overtime to dining car employees under certain conditions after 240 hours of work a month.

Hero of North Africa Arrives

EDMONTON, May 9 (CP).—Lieut. N. L. A. Jewell, M.B.E., D.S.C., who commanded the Royal Navy submarine Seraph which snaked up to the North African shore prior to the Allied invasion and deposited Gen. Mark Clark on enemy soil, and under the noses of the Germans, arrived here today.

Lieut. Jewell, 30, is a second cousin of Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, commander-in-chief of Allied forces in India.

About two weeks before the Allies invaded North Africa, Gen. Clark was due there to make arrangements with friendly French and others. He traveled on Lieut. Jewell's submarine.

"We approached the coast at night and the general went ashore. For two nights and a day we waited for him, submerged during the day to escape being spotted by any of the enemy. When Gen. Clark finally came back, we sank his rubber dinghy and left."

It was in that dinghy an amount of gold, taken to North Africa by Gen. Clark for bargaining purposes, was lost. "We were in too much of a hurry to get it out of the boat," Lieut. Jewell said.

Lieut. Jewell and his sub hovered for five days off the Southern French coast before he was able to snatch Gen. Giraud from the Germans.

For his feats, the officer was decorated with the Distinguished Service Cross, was made a member of the Order of the British Empire and was awarded the United States Legion of Merit.

Indict Jap Sisters For Treason in U.S.

DENVER, May 9 (AP)—A treason indictment was returned today against three Japanese-American sisters accused of aiding in the escape of two German prisoners of war, the charges arising from investigation of snapshots showing the women and fugitives in amorous embrace.

A Federal grand jury names the women—each of whom is married—as Tsuruko (Toots) Wallace, 35; Florence Shivze Otani, 32, and Bill Shitara Tanigoshi, 32, all of Los Angeles prior to their removal to Granada relocation centre in Southern Colorado.

Counter-Raid By Japs Fails

KANDY, Ceylon, May 9 (CP)—A series of Japanese counter-attacks has been crushed with heavy losses and the full-powered Allied offensive to destroy enemy invasion forces in Eastern India is going forward successfully in every sector, Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's headquarters said today.

British infantry, strongly supported by tanks, artillery and planes, mowed down at least 750 Japanese in the fighting around Kohima alone during the last week-end, the bulletin announced, and inflicted similarly heavy casualties.

A British officer reported that a column had cut through rough hill country west of Kohima, completely outflanking Japanese forces in that area, and now was driving into Kohima from the south, along the highway which leads to the sister Allied base of Imphal, 60 airline miles away. The move threatened to trap all Japanese troops west of Kohima.

The situation around Imphal was being similarly eased by the Allied offensive. In severe fighting near Palel, 28 miles south of Imphal, British and Indian troops captured a number of hills and villages and threw back a Japanese counter-attack with heavy losses to the enemy, including destruction of two medium tanks by tank-buster planes of the R.A.F.

Young Tommies To Serve Overseas

LONDON, May 9 (C.P.-Reuters).—The British Government has decided the minimum age for men serving in the army overseas shall be reduced from 19 years, to 18½ years, the War Secretary, Sir James Grigg, informed the House of Commons today.

Announcing this step to add manpower for the attack, the War Secretary said: "This critical stage in the war demands that in the coming months we must make the fullest use of all our trained men to ensure that there is the greatest possible weight behind our blows and that the impetus of our attack is maintained."

The War Secretary added: "Under improved methods of training which we have introduced we have in the army today many thousands of efficient men under 19. We cannot afford to withhold these men who are eager to fight at this stage of the war."

Bracken States More Control Needed of Power to Exploit

WINNIPEG, May 9 (CP).—John Bracken, National Progressive Conservative leader, told the Winnipeg Bracken Club here today that the road to progress called for more efficient control of the power of business and industry to exploit while at the same time give assurance to them of fair treatment. This, he said, would be better than threats of confiscation which drive toward Socialism.

No person can tell what the post-war world would be, politically or economically, he said. "All we can do is to fix the objectives for which we stand and work out what we think are the best methods of getting them."

In the field of industry and business in the past there had been exploitation at the top and unemployment at the bottom, he said.

"The way to restore confidence is to assure employment by the state underwriting its economy to ensure jobs for all at fair wages."

In the sphere of national economy, Mr. Bracken said restrictionist policies must be replaced by policies of expansion, and "make human welfare a primary and not a subsidiary objective."

Mr. Bracken, in an interview, expressed disappointment that Winnipeg was lagging behind in development of its possibilities as a future centre of air transportation.

"The City of Edmonton is getting some place and Winnipeg isn't," he said.

"Oil development in Northwestern Canada is almost beyond one's capacity to appreciate," he continued. "Edmonton is rapidly becoming one of the greatest air transportation centres in Canada."

Nimitz, Halsey and King in Conference

WASHINGTON, May 9 (AP).—Three top admirals met in San Francisco last week-end in a conference that offered full opportunity for planning heavier blows at Japan, the United States Navy announced today.

Participants were Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Pacific Fleet chief; Admiral William L. Halsey, South Pacific commander, and Admiral Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the United States Fleet.

What line their planning took was in no wise indicated by navy officials here. However, Admiral King is known to feel that the Pacific fight must be pushed to the limit even while Allied forces are massing for the assault on Western Europe.

The main line of strategy of the forces under Nimitz and Halsey is likewise obvious. They must either assault Truk in the Caroline Island group directly ahead of American-conquered positions in the Marshall group or, bypassing Truk, seek to establish one or more bases in the Marianna Island chain running north from the Carolines to Japan.

The aim of these operations is to open a Central Pacific supply route to the Philippines for the ampitious forces advancing from the south and already in possession of a new jumping-off point at Hollandia, New Guinea.

Think De Valera Seizing Chance

LONDON, May 10 (Wednesday) (CP).—First reaction in London to the decision of Prime Minister De Valera to call a general election in Eire was that the Eire leader was seizing a chance to cash in on the country's solidarity behind his neutrality policy.

Observers here believed that De Valera, stung by Allied pressure to oust Axis diplomats from Eire, had grasped the opportunity afforded by a single-vote defeat of the Government in the Dail last night to dissolve the Dail and go to the country.

The issue on which the Eire Premier was defeated—Government control of Eire's transportation system—was acknowledged as a major one, but it was thought that he saw in the defeat a suitable opportunity to consolidate his position with the support which his resistance to Allied pressure has won among the people of Eire.

The Fianna Fail Administration has been in a precarious position since last June's election, when it was returned with less than an overall majority in the Dail.

The neutrality policy itself would not be openly at stake in the coming election campaign since the opposition parties have agreed that Eire should remain out of the war.

More Canned Fruits Vegetables in Stock

OTTAWA, May 9 (CP)—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics said today stocks of canned fruits and vegetables held by canners, wholesale dealers and chain store warehouses in Canada on April 1 were heavier than on the corresponding date of last year, with canned fruit stocks at 981,312 dozen cans compared with 959,085 and canned vegetables at 6,153,068 dozen compared with 5,187,626.

WARTIME PROFITS

LONDON (CP).—Of 1,300 large war contracting firms whose trading results are among the 2,100 analyzed in the civil appropriation accounts, it was shown that 38 per cent made profits of more than 30 per cent. Two per cent sustained losses.

TRADING RESUMED

KANO, Nigeria (CP).—The customs station here has been reopened to handle the resumption of trade in West Africa between French territory and Northern Nigeria. It was closed early in 1943.

The War Today

By KINKE L. SIMPSON
A.P. War Analyst

The first monsoon rains are falling on the India-Burma front, bolstering Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's apparent belief that the Japanese "invasion" of Eastern India is not only stymied but is facing utter disaster.

Within a week the full weight of the monsoon will develop. For the next three months it will halt active military operations everywhere in Burma except in the Upper Irrawaddy Valley where the monsoon rainfall is only a fraction of that in the India-Burma border sector.

Authorized British military commentators in the United States attribute Admiral Mountbatten's withdrawal of his forces from Buthedaung on the Arakan front in Burma to the approaching monsoon. It represents the end of the campaign to recapture Akyab until the rainy season passes.

Their mission in any case, according to Gen. Horace S. Sewell, British military commentator, was "primarily diversionary," to take enemy weight off the main Allied operation in Burma, the drive of Chinese-American troops under Gen. Joseph Stilwell to link up Ledo Road communications with the old Burma route to China.

In that sector, on the Upper Irrawaddy, monsoon rains will least affect operations, being less than half as heavy as in Arakan.

The failure of that gamble with the monsoon in an effort to delay General Stilwell's advance is arousing concern in Tokio.

Failure to halt Stilwell's operations or seriously delay him by the frustrated India "invasion" exposed Japanese China Sea traffic and bases along the China coast itself, in French Indo-China and in the Philippines to stepped-up air blasting.

Four Years After

Four years ago today the German army tramped over the border into the Lowlands, overrunning Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg in short order, in what was a successful attempt to isolate the British and French forces. They were making a new brand of warfare, more deadly, more gunned than hitherto known in the field. They beat down all resistance, racing ahead in their tanks, cutting off all organized defence. Back of them came the planes, the terror bombing of Rotterdam, the machine-gunning of men, women and children fleeing on the roads—more deliberate savagery than this world had seen in 1,000 years. That was four years ago, in so far as the invasion of Holland was concerned.

It is a different picture today. Today the Germans have flooded the lowlands in Holland, driven the people from the coastal region to the east, quartered bombed-out German families in the eastern provinces, and sit nervously waiting for an invasion they can neither anticipate nor turn. The war has not gone the way that Germany expected. To conquer all of Europe was not enough. Europe had to be held, and Germany knows now that she will not be able to do that. The United Nations will take it from her, in a brand of warfare newer and better than her own.

In Holland, in Belgium, in Luxembourg, in France, in Norway, wherever Germans have planted alien feet, they fear the very ground they walk on. It has not been really conquered. Something as indefinable as the spirit of the people has beaten the captors, and foiled all of their efforts. Stark, mass hatred greets the German soldier wherever he goes. Nor has he anywhere in those lands a friend. So when "D" Day comes, the German soldier will be fighting on alien soil, already among foes, and in the face of more effective force than the world has ever seen mustered anywhere before. It will be a great, avenging blow.

One may well picture how the people of the Lowlands are waiting for that day. Ahead the long night is lifting, and the first grey streaks of a tardy dawn are coming up. There is nothing "conquering" about the conqueror. Sullen and cowed, he waits what he knows in his heart of hearts will be the end, the last savage resistance and then the collapse of the last of the "New Order in Europe." Look where one will, it is human spirit that conquers. Oppressed, downtrodden, kept under by club and by machine guns, the dispossessed await their turn with unflinching courage and a high faith. They know that the dawn is coming, that liberation is near.

Sevastopol Recaptured

Late bulletins relayed from London yesterday announced the fall of Sevastopol to Russian siege guns, and the latest defeat of the German army in the Ukraine. For Germany, it was a lost cause from the first, but the defeat now, so clear cut and so sharp, will be none the less bitter for that. That brings to a triumphant close the long Winter offensive of our Russian Allies, an offensive which thrust the German army back almost entirely off Russian soil. What lies ahead is even more significant. The Russians are holding three main bridgeheads on the road to Berlin; holding them, and preparing to use them when the right moment comes.

The special announcement from Moscow telling of the recapture of Sevastopol climaxed one of the fastest drives in the whole war. In it the Russians swept through the Crimea in a few days, carrying all before them until the fortress of Sevastopol itself was reached. Escape routes by land were cut long ago. Escape by air or by sea was whittled down until both mediums were virtually denied to the enemy. Inevitably, the Russians will take a rich haul at Sevastopol, and the enemy one of the most smarting reverses of the war. He was trapped, and impotent.

It has been already assured that the Russians will fight on. Teheran and other conferences made that plain. Now that Russian soil is virtually free from the invader, there remains the task of punishing the aggressors and putting them in their place, so that this thing will not occur again one generation hence. The Russians see that as clearly as we do. They have shown long-ranged vision in this war. For Germany the circle narrows. Closer and closer to the hub the rings are being drawn. Off the sea, under dog in the air, and over-produced on land, Germany can expect nothing but battle to the end, and that battle on many fronts. There is only one end to that—victory for the United Nations arms.

Waste Paper

The Department of National War Services assures us, with evident tears in its eyes, that there is an acute shortage of paperboard and paper waste in Canada, and that in consequence the lack "may jeopardize our whole war effort." Without going quite that far, we agree that paperboard is hard to come by, and should not be wasted in any event. We would feel even stronger about that if a good deal of paperboard did not come to this office, and to every other newspaper in Canada, in circumstances which we consider extremely wasteful: circumstances over which the Crown has full control.

The fact remains that paperboard, and waste paper in other forms, is ploughed back to the paperboard mills in Canada, and may be used again. These mills have not only been running light on their stocks, but also in some instances they cannot get enough raw material to meet their commitments in the war effort. It is there that the general public can help, and will help if it understands the reason why there is such a drain on stiff-board papers. That reason, of course, is the growing and unlimited war use of the finished product.

Through the courtesy of the Department of National War Services we are enabled to cite a few of the common uses of paperboard in this war. Here they are. Paperboard is used in landing operations, for packages that will float ashore or be recovered at low tide. Paperboard packages blood plasma, medical kits, emergency rations, gas masks and many other service supplies. Paper parachutes are used to drop food in action. Paperboard is used in treated form to package naphtha and benzine, with liners. Treated paper is used for electrical conduits, replacing metals. Shells, grenades and fuses are packaged in paperboard. Dehydrated foods and condensed forms of supplies are put up in paper cartons. Paper is used outside of powder canisters at munition factories. Gun shells, air propellers and bombs require paperboard containers.

So paperboard is definitely in the war. If the Crown will do its share in cutting down waste in national usages, the public will do the same. Paperboard can be saved, handed to the salvage collectors, and used over and oven again. It is everybody's obligation to see that none of this very handy material is thrown away. One moment's reflection on the war uses of the material will show that a genuine need is there. The rest is up to us, as a nation of thinking and willing individuals.

It Is Up to Us

The Sixth Victory Loan is going over in Canada, surely, rapidly and completely. That in itself is a remarkable tribute to the will of this nation in war, for this is as we have pointed out the eighth time around. Its predecessors were two War Loans and five Victory Loans. Canada has, of course, a number of people who believe that money can be created by a wave of the hand. On the other hand, it also has a sound majority of people who know that if dollars are needed in the war they must come from those who have them. That is the general public. It is there the earned and saved dollars are. And those dollars must be made to fight. They are needed, 1,200,000,000 of them.

Greater Victoria must not fail of its objective in the Sixth Victory Loan. It cannot do less than the rest of Canada is doing uniformly and doing well. We will not fail if individuals who have not already acted will now do their part. The time for talk is over. Only actions count now. Buy bonds with what money genuinely is available. Buy future bonds with money that can be earned and saved. Buy all out, and know that each dollar saved in this fashion will net you the satisfaction of helping in the war, and also the security of having something in hand when peace comes. No one yet has gone broke through saving their money.

Right now in the local drive, about two people out of three have acted. They have made their investments, knowing the reason and approving the cause. It is the remaining third that will count. It must be forthcoming, or the objective that has been set for this area cannot be reached. This is everyone's war. It will be everyone's peace! Now is the time to help in the war, and prepare for that peace when it comes. Put victory first. Fight!

Seen in Passing

It is about this time in the war that the United Nations should be passing out to their troops handbooks with a rough and ready guide to the German language. "How far is it from here to Cologne?"; "Where can I find a restaurant?"; "Is there a laundry nearby?"—those are the questions that the army of occupation will need to be coached in, and at no distant date hence. Some of the guidebooks should be dropped on Germany just to rub it in. They might be provided with the caution: "We are coming, Adolf!"

Moving-Day

Whene'er I see a moving van, a-lumbering down the way,
With household gods, and goddesses, in wild and weird array,
I gaily place where none shall see, a-top the crazy load,
Just one thing more, then watch it go so slowly down the road.

It's such a little trifling thing, as thin and light as air,
That none could mark its added weight, and none shall know it's there.
But when the load is lifted off, some silent rooms to grace,
I hope my tiny unseen gift may find a homey place.

It's just a little kindly wish, and half of it's a prayer,
That happiness may go along, and meet the family there.

Across Canada

Quoting

SHOULD USE THEM

(Montreal Star)

Canada's voice answered clearly and distinctly when the question was put in April, 1942: "Are you in favor of releasing the Government from any obligation arising out of any past commitments restricting the methods of raising men for military service?" The answer was an unequivocal "Yes." Everybody who voted in that plebiscite knew that the clumsy phrasing of the question meant in fact, "Are you in favor of conscription for overseas service?" And the answer was "Yes." It is still open to the Government to avail itself of the mandate then given. This country no longer needs 75,000 men to defend its shores; it may need them to help in the invasion of Europe. It should not hesitate to use them.

LIVE OFF CANADA

(Vancouver Sun)

When their present crusade is over, the Douks will go back home and say that we don't understand them. They have been saying that during four decades—meantime giving us no assistance at all in "understanding" them, in their way, that is. The truth is we understand them too well. They have good traits of working hard on the farms when they feel like it. But at heart they love to be revolutionaries. They want to live off Canada, not to be citizens of Canada. Like the Japs, they are sore because they can't "tak over."

PRODUCE AND SELL

(Calgary Herald)

Canada's prosperity is determined largely by one factor—world markets. As an export nation, we must sell our produce at the best price we can get. When we do that (as we are doing it right now) the workman has work, the farmer gets a fairer return for his produce, depression doesn't exist, and every man prospers, whether he is running a grocery store in Calgary, a packing plant in Vancouver, or a life insurance company in Montreal. World markets are not only our bread and butter but also our jam. To prosper, we must produce and sell. It is our only chance.

"MOTHER COUNTRY"

(Edmonton Journal)

Mr. Churchill sees no reason why the term "mother country" should be dropped, even if "elder sister country" might describe more correctly the present constitutional relation of Britain to the Dominions. It is hard to believe that objection has been raised at all seriously to the continued use of the old phrase or the adoption of the other advocated. Britain is actually the mother country, in racial sense, of the majority of Canadians and of the rest as well, in so far as the system of government under which they live has been derived from her.

PROPHETS OF DISASTER

(Winnipeg Free Press)

From this war's beginning there have been prophets of disaster who could prove beyond question that the Allies were beaten in 1940, that the Russians would not last six weeks in 1941, that the submarines would beat us in 1942, that inflation would engulf us in 1943, and many other things equally certain. Our worst disasters in the war were those that didn't happen; our most complete casualties the prophets who didn't know what they were talking about.

HOLD THAT TIGER

(Winnipeg Tribune)

One Canadian custom seems to mystify the English. When Canadians call for "three cheers and a tiger" not many British know what a "tiger" means. According to Maple Leaf, the Canadian Army newspaper, here is the order some brass-hat framed to take care of the situation: "It was mentioned verbally some time ago that 'three cheers' for someone meant three cheers only and did not include 'tiger.' If an additional cheer is wanted, the command will be 'four cheers.' 'Tiger' will not be called for." It is said that the troops do not call them Tiger tanks any longer, but "Four Cheer" tanks.

HIGH-CALIBRE RECRUITS

(Gazette, Montreal)

The acceptance of top-level posts in the Progressive Conservative party organization by Mr. C. P. McTague, K.C., and Mr. Henry Borden, K.C., will be of undoubted and particular advantage to that party. But more broadly, and perhaps more significantly, their step lends new weight and prestige to politics generally in this country. It injects a fresh vigor and solidity into political alignments that will help greatly to resolve with clear-cut decision the issues that are crystallizing, the choices that must be made by Canadians before many moons are past. Citizens with a conception of politics in its best sense, as the science of government and something that concerns every adult member of the population, will find much cause for satisfaction in the recruiting of such high-calibre men to play on active part in political life.

The British Labor Party will meet on May 29 to discuss plain talking about war guilt and trial of war criminals where they committed their crimes; occupation of enemy territory after the war, together with complete disarmament of Germany and Japan, and strict control of their economies and finances; full reparations from Germany, including restoration of all loot, payment of costs of Allied occupation, and provision of labor for Europe's devastated areas. . . . Dr. Jan Masaryk, Deputy Prime Minister and Minister for Foreign Affairs of Czechoslovakia, declared during a recent interview: "Our first consideration must be to bring succor and help to the devastated nations. If the English-speaking peoples get sentimental about Germany and the Germans six months after the war, as they did after the last war, we will be in the same dilemma we faced when we were demanding reparations at the same time our bankers were forcing loans down German throats. Those loans were used to build cannon with which to kill your children and mine. Germans must be re-educated under rules which we will impose. If the United Nations do not remain united, there will be another war within a generation, and that will mean the end of civilization" . . . Poem from one signing himself "Aqua Pura": "The people's voice, 'tis loud and clear, it speaks against the glass of beer; no taverns, then, shall e'er appear. The people's voice. The people's voice, it speaks again, 'No chlorine in our water main'; but this time it shall call in vain. The people's voice, 'Give them no choice,' the voice of state. 'We'll dry their tonsils from this date; we'll show them. Come, let's chlorinate the people's voice.'"

A REJOINDER

Sir,—In your issue of May 6 there is a letter signed Mabel Harvey deploring the fact that people do not cheer the troops and asking why this is so.

She has her answer right in her own letter: She says someone asked, "Is this a parade or a funeral?" A serviceman replied, "A funeral for most of us." There is her answer.

Cheering troops seem about on a par with cheering at a funeral or while someone is dying. We don't feel like cheering when our men are marching away to face death. Some people cannot see beyond the uniforms and waving flags; they cannot envisage the "man with the scythe" marching beside every man.

It would be more fitting if, instead of cheering our boys when they are leaving us, we worked harder to bring them home, and to see that they will get a better deal than their fathers got after the Great War.

There will be no lack of cheering when our boys come home; but let us not forget that they cannot live on cheers and that they are the same men who fought for us even though they have laid aside their uniforms for working clothes.

AUSTRALIA SPEAKS

Sir,—I wonder how many people listened to the broadcast by Mr. Curtin, Prime Minister of Australia, last Sunday? It was one of the most honest and forthright public declarations made by any statesman of the Empire—yes, Empire and proud of it. Not an Empire in the sense of the old Roman Empire or in that given to it by the isolationists in the States. No, the Empire today is an association of free and independent peoples proud of their ancestry and of their traditions possessing a proud and glorious heritage. There is more freedom and justice, more respect for law and for the rights of the individual in the British Commonwealth of Nations—if you prefer that title—than in any country in the world, bar none.

I heard the Tokio radio gloating this morning on the supposed differences of opinion between Mr. Mackenzie King on the one side and Mr. Curtin and Mr. Peter Fraser on the other. Such an impression is unfortunate. Canada is inhabited by people who are 50 per cent of British descent, 30 per cent French and the remainder mainly Northern and Central Europeans. Her problem is much more difficult than that of Australia admittedly and she has never been under the threat of imminent invasion as Australia has. She has never been bombed—a few German bombs on Ottawa and Montreal would have had a wonderful effect on Eastern isolationists. She has always had the big brother to the south to guard her in case of serious trouble and has banked on it. Too heavily perhaps. Let us hope that Mr. Mackenzie King, who spent last week-end with Mr. Churchill listened to John Curtin and his words. Party politics and real statesmanship are poles apart but Curtin has shown him the way.

Assorted Ghosts

Contributed

They who scoff at ghosts should take a dog along with them when visiting haunted precincts. And should bear well in mind that ghosts won't oblige them by timing appearances to suit their convenience.

Ghosts seldom, if ever, do things that way. They are apt to be intermittent; to appear unexpectedly at any time or day or night. It's quite an exploded idea that the hours of their appearances are limited to the period between midnight and glimmering dawn.

Once witness the demeanor of a dog when there is a ghost about and you will be convinced there's something unusual around. His scare will give you the jitters, unless you happen to be case-hardened, possessed of iron nerves, or imbued with a skepticism that is proof against all outside influences. As a ghost detector, the friend of man cannot be surpassed. A dog cannot lay ghosts or drive them away, but he senses them in no uncertain manner. Had dogs language—human language—psychical research might be helped considerably in establishing the reality of ghosts, so called. Investigators, amateur and otherwise, do not appear to have appreciated this fact sufficiently. The anguished shivering of mortal dread or the wire-stiff raised hackles—according to the canine temperament—the querulous whimper, abject crawling suppliant to the feet of his master—any one of these symptoms are too involuntary to be explained away. Anyone observing these distressful signs in an otherwise healthy animal, unmoved, must belong to that class of materialist never believing anything that cannot actually be seen and handled; that take no cognizance of anything lying beyond the mundane things of every day. Of such are the obscurantists, atheists of the occult, who obstinately refuse to give poor ghosts their due, never admitting any evidence of their existence, however well-founded.

Not all ghosts walk. Some are stationary. Ethereal statues, these. Others glide slowly, or swiftly flit. Some there are whose marionette-like gestures determine the manner of their death. They are of infinite variety and among them, fortunately rare, are those that offensively play upon the olfactory nerves or in a blast of cold air indicate in a temperate climate what sub-zero weather is like.

The only effective way of dealing with a badly haunted house is to pull the place down about their ears. This has been done on more than one occasion. Even so, sounds have been known to persist, centuries after the event. Precincts, such as orchards, garden walks, forest glades and country lanes, can never be freed of them. Their presence has perforce to be endured, or ignored.

If razing haunted houses to the ground were generally adopted, there would be few of the stately homes of England left. Ancestral houses harbor ghosts in infinite variety. They who live in these places get entirely used to the visitations, pride themselves in their possession. They are an heirloom; the originals of the canvases adorning ancestral picture galleries. This is not to say that humbler dwelling places can be left out of the reckoning. In these cases, some old-fashioned daguerreotype photo enlargement supplies the clue identifying the ghost with some progenitor of humbler origin, long since passed away.

Shakespeare revelled in ghosts, making free use of them in his plays. And what Shakespeare did not know about the mysteries connected with mundane existence, the vagaries of our common humanity, in his masterly survey of the entire gamut of human emotions, amounts to little indeed. Only the Bible surpasses him in this regard.

In "Julius Caesar," Calpurnia, Caesar's wife, refers to the ghosts, seen by the watch, that "shrieked and squealed about the public streets" on the eve of the fateful Ides of March. Many Shakespearean ghosts are made to talk, though that may be poetic licence, dramatic ruse. Many are silent. Of the talking kind, Hamlet's royal father is perhaps the most notable, because the more familiar. Richard III, on the eve of Bosworth Field, is plagued by eleven ghosts—all of them communicative. In Macbeth there are twelve; three loquacious; nine, like the shade of Banquo, silent, condemnatory.

Much has to be allowed dramatic invention in the working out of plot, but it would be a safe guess that the great poet and dramatist, while using popular fallacies and superstitions, as such, believed in the occult. Otherwise he would never have written about the "things twixt heaven and earth undreamed of in our philosophy, as accounting for the piteous, royal wraith haunting the platform of the Castle of Elsinore.—Arthur Warren.

The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish fifth water from low water. Where blanks occur in table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

To find the depth of water on the silt at the Esquimalt Drydock at any tide, add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given.

The bidding:

South's luck lay in finding North with high cards in the right suits, and in having been warned by West's injudicious double of five clubs to look out for the club finesse, which South otherwise probably would have taken, and lost.

West opened the spade king; declarer ruffed, led a diamond to the ace, and ruffed another spade. Next he led to the diamond king and ruffed a third spade, and then used the club king as an entry for a fourth spade ruff with the trump ace.

Now declarer's last trump was led and dummy's three high trumps drew West's cards in that suit while declarer discarded a diamond and a club. Finally, a club was led from dummy and when East showed out declarer nonchalantly played the seven. West, after winning, had to return a club from the queen right up to declarer's tenace, and the contract was "in."

Another bit of luck for declarer, incidentally, was the fact that West had held only two diamonds and consequently had no card of exit.

Club's Glider Almost Ready

Construction of a 14-foot primary glider is almost finished in the Broad Street workshop of Vancouver Island Gliding and Soaring Club, and work on a more advanced model will start in a week or so, it was stated at the club's first annual meeting at the City Hall last night.

First tests of the primary glider will be made at Macdonald Park before the end of May, said J. B. Taylor, vice-president. When it is ready for real flights, these will be made either at the former city airfield on Lansdowne Road, or near Royal Oak.

Twenty persons at last night's meeting re-elected Alderman B. J. Gadsden president, Mr. Taylor vice-president, and Mrs. G. B. Murdie secretary-treasurer.

Directors are W. B. Sylvester, James Dempster, Patrick Mumford, A. C. Young, F.O. Ernest Eve and Ray Rand. Mr. Rand is the only new director, replacing M. H. King, who withdrew.

Mr. Taylor raised the question of making the weekly work night Thursday instead of Tuesday. No decision was made, but it was proposed that work should be done on both nights.

Mr. Young, manager of the Victoria plant of Boeing Aircraft, was introduced. He is to supervise construction of the secondary glider that is soon to be started. A jig specialist from the aircraft company, who has also joined the club, will be working with him.

Amendment of the club by-laws to make the membership fee $5 a year for adults and $2 for juniors, was unanimously approved. Members up to now have paid 75 cents a month.

Giving a summary of the year's activities, Mrs. Murdie said that membership at one time had reached 135. About 50 had been taking part in construction.

New members, including two girls, were signed on at the meeting. A number of school-age boys are members.

The glider model now nearly completed is a Dagling, an English make. It has a single seat at the nose. The fabric-covered dihedralless wing is braced with piano wire. One wing is now covered and has been given three of its five coats of "dope." The craft will be yellow.

The more advanced model to be started soon, named a Kirby "Cadet," will have a 38-foot wingspan. Blueprints for it cost $35.

Lake Grain Shipments Largest in History

CLEVELAND, May 9 (AP).—The United States Office of Defence Transportation's Great Lakes carriers division today reported the largest April shipment of grain from Lake Superior ports in the history of Great Lakes navigation.

Last month's shipments from Lake Superior totaled 75,217,644 bushels, compared to the previous April high, recorded in 1927, of 53,500,000 bushels. Movement from Lake Michigan was light last month and, therefore, not included in the record-breaking totals, the O.D.T. said. April shipments from Duluth totaled 14,125,288 bushels and the port of Fort William moved 61,092,356 bushels.

Grain shipments from Lake Superior ports in April, 1943, totaled [illegible] reported. Shipments during the month of May last year totaled 23,400,174 bushels.

Elected Official Of Coast Workers

James Lackie, a veteran of World War I, and for many years prominently identified with labor on the British Columbia waterfront, was elected a vice-president of the Pacific Coast Council, International Longshoremen's Association at a convention in Anacortes last week. Delegates of locals from California to Alaska attended. Mr. Lackie was the delegate representing Victoria.

Serving as a member of the constitution and by-laws committee he was instrumental in having embodied in the rules several clauses clarifying the relationship of locals in the British Columbia section to those of the United States coast zones, most important of which was one giving autonomy in local matters to British Columbia locals.

It was also agreed that all locals in B.C. should form a British Columbia District Council. It is hoped that two other longshore groups—Port Alberni and New Westminster—will shortly become actively identified with the British Columbia District Council and help to inaugurate it.

Besides its A.F.L. affiliation, the Victoria group which Mr. Lackie heads belongs to the Victoria Trades and Labor Council, which is an affiliate of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

Following the Anacortes meeting, Mr. Lackie was accompanied to Vancouver by Ed. Coester, vice-president of the Seafarers' Union of the Pacific and business agent of the Sailors' Union of the Pacific; and by E. Hartley, president of the Puget Sound Lumber and Sawmill Workers' Union, both A.F.L. affiliates. Coester and Hartley had been guests at the Anacortes convention.

Report Liberty Ship Sunk by Explosion

AN ALEUTIAN BASE, May 9 (AP).—Naval authorities concur in the opinion of survivors of the Liberty ship John W. Straub that the vessel was sunk by an explosion, said a navy statement released today.

The statement said interviews with 15 survivors revealed that "in their opinion sinking of the ship was not due to cracking up or to any structural failure but was caused by an explosion."

The Straub went down April 19 with a loss of 58 men. The disaster scene was set 21 miles southwest of Sanak Island in the Aleutians.

Builder of Many Sailing Ships Dies

SEATTLE, May 9 (AP).—Captain H. C. Hansen, 75, longtime prominent in shipping on Puget Sound, Willapa Harbor, the Columbia River and British Columbia waters, and most recently manager of the Willapa Harbor Stevedoring Company, died suddenly yesterday at a transportation club meeting.

He came from his native Norway in 1916 and established yards for constructing sailing ships at Tacoma and Victoria. He built eight [illegible] Tacoma, and Cholberg Yard, Victoria, including his namesake, the auxiliary schooner H. C. Hansen, which became famous in the Pacific trade routes; the Nottingham, the C. F. Clise and the Vancouver.

He has been residing at South Bend since the outbreak of this war. Mrs. Hansen and six sons, including Gunner Hansen, Chelan County, survive.

Funeral rites will be held at the Emmanuel Lutheran Church here Friday afternoon.

70,000 Bees Take Wing to Peace River

VANCOUVER, May 9.—Seventy thousand bees flew 597 miles north of Vancouver today at an average speed of 150 miles an hour and at altitudes reaching 15,000 feet—power for this migration being provided by Canadian Pacific Air Lines.

Frank Johns, Vancouver, who imports bees from Vancouver for distribution all over British Columbia said that this shipment, the foundation for seven hives, goes to Otto Elden, Fort St. John, in the Peace River Block.

He has made previous successful shipments by C.P.A., said Mr. Johns, and has found that cold and high altitudes do not hurt the bees. They just huddle a little closer.

Retires After 46 Years on Railroad

VANCOUVER, May 9.—Canadian National Railways' No. 1 conductor on the Western region seniority list, Ernest Durrell brought passenger train No. 1 in today, on his "last run" in active service. Tomorrow, his 65th birthday, he retires on pension after railroading 46 years, 41 with the C.N.R. On arrival this morning the veteran was greeted by a group of company officials and employees headed by W. T. Moodie, general superintendent.

Mr. Durrell, who makes his home at 569 Falkland Road, Victoria, has been on trains in and out of Vancouver since C.N.R. steel was laid to the Coast. He worked out of the old Pender Street depot before the present Canadian National station was completed in 1919. At that time the line operated three trains weekly. Since coming to the British Columbia district in 1917, Ernie Durrell has worked mostly on main line passenger trains, with intervals on Okanagan and Vancouver Island lines.

Three of Mr. Durrell's sons are with the Canadian forces, William, R.C.A.F., Ceylon; Gordon, R.C.A., England, and Jack, R.C.A.F., at a West Coast station.

To Open Eagles' Tea

—By Staff Photographer.
MRS. W. H. COX, SR.

Who is the mother of three members of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, Aerie No. 12, and has been asked by the ladies' auxiliary of the order to open the Mother's Day tea and apron sale to be held in the aerie rooms, 751 View Street, on Friday from 2:30 to 6 p.m. Mrs. Cox's three sons in the order are Trustee W. H. Cox and Members A. J. Cox and C. H. Cox. She is a native Victorian.

Mother's Day in 1944 represents 40 years of Eagle sponsorship of this nationwide salute to motherhood. For it was in the year 1904 that a young Notre Dame professor, Frank E. Hering, spoke at an Eagle meeting in the English Opera House in Indianapolis and made the first public plea for setting aside one day each year in honor of mothers. Annual observance of Mother's Day was written into the Grand Aerie Constitution in 1912, two years before the President of the United States proclaimed the second Sunday of May as a day of tribute to mothers. Mrs. Jessie Taylor is convener of the Mother's Day tea, and Mrs. W. Spaven is in charge of the aprons. Dance displays will be given by pupils of Wynne Shaw's Dancing Academy, and the musical programme will be given by members of the auxiliary, Mrs. A. Vealch, Mrs. Betty Viggers and Mrs. Oliver.

Lady Byng Worries At Plant Spoilation

Mrs. E. C. Mackenzie, president, Society for Preservation of Native Plants of British Columbia, received at her home, 1039 Richardson Street, the following letter from Lady Byng of Vimy, whose interest love of nature makes anything she may say well worth considering," Mrs. Mackenzie asserts.

The letter reads, in part:

"I am much distressed at the ruthless picking of the wild flowers in the district, and horrified last time I was here, three years ago, at the way in which that frail little Calypso Borealis (Lady's Slipper) was being torn up, crushed into old jam jars and offered for sale to tourists on the roadsides. As one knows, it is a rare plant because its range is so limited, and therefore it should be shielded from such depredations.

"There is a notice put up about respecting wild flowers in the Uplands, which, however, was considerably nullified by somebody writing to the papers a little time ago advising people to go there and pick them. It would have made me laugh if it had not been such a lamentable business.

"I often wish Canada would take a leaf out of America's book in regard to the country's flora and make proper regulations for restricting its spoliation. California's Government was shrewd enough to realize that their amazing flora was a great investment and that thousands came to Southern California just to enjoy the beauty of those flowers, which I know so well. They clamped down promptly on picking when they realized this source of income and inflicted a fine of $100 on anybody cutting the wonderful Yucca Whippleii which was in danger of becoming extinct and the result has been admirable. They also forbid—and see to it that the law is obeyed—the picking of other wild flowers, so that the increase in them is astonishing and their fame spreading far and wide, brings thousands of visitors every year. Surely Canada, with her fine flora and her glorious forests should do something, especially now with the great increase of excellent roads, to protect these treasures for the enjoyment of her own people and to encourage tourist traffic, which is a paying proposition, to put it on its lowest basis!

I have always loved the Canadian wilds, and loving the country and its beauties as I do, I would like to uplift a very humble voice in a plea that other things besides the dogwood should be protected by the Government before such protection comes too late."

V.O.N. Visits Total 1,342 for April

April has been another very busy month for the V.O.N., with a total of 1,342 visits reported by Miss M. Baird, supervisor, at a meeting of the board on Tuesday.

There was an attendance of 219 at the baby clinics and 48 at the pre-natal classes. Nearly one-third of the nursing visits were to communicable diseases cases. An immunization clinic has been planned in the Lampson Street School.

It was decided to open another baby clinic, in the James Bay district, in the Autumn.

On the recommendation of the nurses' advisory committee the board decided to increase the staff by an additional nurse, and the Junior V.O.N., through their president, Mrs. N. G. Corbin, offered to supply her bag and outfit.

Mrs. George Hall reported the purchase of a car in excellent condition. The board unanimously voted that a note of appreciation be sent to Mr. Hawkes, of Hawkes Bros., for his help in the matter of the purchase.

Mrs. Richard Felton is unable to continue to do the publicity work, and Mrs. E. H. W. Elkington will take her place.

Mrs. Peter Barr presided and welcomed one new member, Mrs. J. Grigg.

AID BUILDING FUND

Progressive games proved an attraction at a recent gathering at Woodsworth Hall. More than eighty people attended. Game prizes were won by Mrs. Alex. Crow and Mrs. Peggy Balmer, and Mr. L. C. Thomas and Mr. Colin Parker. The main prize of the evening, a pair of flannelette blankets, went to Mrs. Bone. Mrs. Buxton for the social committee, reported that the Building Fund would benefit by $90 through the evening's activities.

BETA SIGMA PHI

"Architecture" was the subject of the cultural programme conducted by Mrs. A. Morrison at the meeting of Zeta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi sorority on Monday evening.

Formal installation of new officers took place during the business period, the retiring officers handing over their respective badges of office to Miss Franca Law, president; Miss Edna Raper, vice-president; Miss Marjorie MacLennan, recording-secretary; Mrs. W. Leyis, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. L. Wardman, treasurer. Frances Law conducted the business meeting. Plans were made for a Mother's Day tea on May 14 at the Empress Hotel. A motion was passed to buy a war bond. Director Mrs. T. Hammond reported that 33,895 stamps had been sent to England this year and sold for the benefit of bombed-out hospitals. A committee was formed to arrange for inviting Alpha Zeta Chapter from Port Angeles as week-end guests. The next meeting will be held on May 22 at the Y.W.C.A.

DUBLIN (CP)—The Eire tea ration will be reduced in June from three-quarters of an ounce per person per week to one-half an ounce.

S.J.A.B. Seeks Overseas Recruits

OTTAWA, May 6.—Fifty women members of the St. John Ambulance Brigade are to proceed overseas just as soon as they can be recruited from among the ten thousand uniformed members of the brigade now serving in Canada. They are to serve with the British Joint War Organization Transport of Wounded Department as ambulance drivers. More will likely be sent later in the year.

Nine Canadian officers of the brigade are now in Britain and have set up a headquarters there and have already served with several of the wartime services. They report a great demand for Canadian volunteers. More drivers are needed, V.A.D.'s for the civil nursing reserve and for duty at St. Dunstan's. The Canadian headquarters hope to fill many of these requests as the funds for transportation and other expenses become available here.

Rigid requirements have been set out for those to go over. All must be members of the brigade, with driving experience and first aid and home nursing training. Health requirements are very strict, women may be married but with no children and betwene 21 and 40 years of age, 25 to 35 preferred. St. John will pay transportation costs to Britain but, as basic salaries there are low and expenses high, those going over must have some private income. No matter what their present rank in the brigade, all will proceed overseas as Ambulance Sisters. Recruiting is through the provincial offices of the brigade or by application to St. John House in Ottawa.

Children Stage Red Cross Rally

Nearly 500 children including 175 delegates from various centres throughout the province, attended the Junior Red Cross rally in Point Grey Junior High in Vancouver on Tuesday. This gathering was the first of its kind to be held in this province, and was under the direction of Miss Margaret Palmer.

H.R.H. Princess Alice attended the rally and spoke during the afternoon. On behalf of the children of British Columbia she was presented with a tooled leather book cover made by the girls of Penticton High School. She also accepted for His Excellency the Earl of Athlone, Governor-General of Canada and president of the Canadian Red Cross Society, a totem pole, made by an Indian boy member of the Junior Red Cross branch at Alert Bay. Princess Elizabeth, who is patroness of this junior organization, will receive a leather purse made by the girls of the Vernon school. This is the only school organization to which Princess Elizabeth has consented to lend her patronage.

Reports on the programme of health, citizenship and activities of the Red Cross members were given by several pupil delegates who represented the 55,000 students who form the British Columbia junior branches.

This event, which will now be included in the yearly programme of school children throughout the province, is sponsored by the Department of Education. Miss Jean Bowrie, national director of the Junior Red Cross, came from Toronto to attend the rally.

Victoria children attending the rally included Ron Gordon, Central Junior High; Jean Oliver and Loris Brynjolfson, Oak Bay High, and Norma Matthews, Victoria High. From Jordan River School there were Velma Rust and Billy Emerson.

Jewish Congress Distributes Book

As part of a Canadian Jewish Congress educational and religious welfare programme, some 13,000 Jewish men and women in the Canadian combat services will receive a copy of the Book of Jewish Thoughts, edited by Chief Rabbi Rev. Dr. Joseph H. Hertz.

Since first publication in 1917 over 200,000 copies of this work have been printed, mostly for Jewish men and women in the services. According to Saul Hayes, national executive director, Montreal, the present edition, the first to appear in Canada, has been rendered necessary by the growing number of Jews in the Canadian services, and the restrictions on paper in Britain.

Lifts Ban on Married Teachers

LONDON, May 9 (CP).—Britain has lifted the ban on married women teachers. The education bill was amended in the House of Commons today providing that no woman may be disqualified for employment as a teacher or dismissed by reason of her marriage.

Women Take Part in Buffet Parlor Cars

HALIFAX, May 10.—Women have taken over in yet another formerly exclusive male domain. They are now being employed in Canadian National buffet-parlor cars, the first women to be so employed in Canada. The women have been assigned to the buffet parlor car service on the Canadian National main line between Halifax and Sydney with three to a crew, under a male steward. One woman has taken over as buffet cook, another serves as pantry girl and the third as waitress. Heretofore, men were exclusively employed as dining car crew, but with the ever-dwindling supply of male help it was decided to try out women in Canadian National dining cars, and consideration is being given to extending the innovation to other main line runs.

Attired in natty white uniforms, the women of the buffet parlor crew present an attractive appearance. The buffet cook has an all-white uniform familiarly known as a "Hoover" dress, with a white chef's cap, and the pantry girl is similarly attired. The waitress wears a white uniform edged in maroon, with apron and bandeau.

PETER DISCOVERS THE SECRET OF RATTLES

Peter Rabbit was so excited that he almost forgot that he was spying and that if he showed himself he might miss the very thing for which he waited so long. There was Rattles the Kingfisher coming straight down the Laughing Brook with a minnow in his bill, and of course he was bringing it to his babies in their secret home! In a minute or two he, Peter, would know the secret! In his excitement Peter started to sit up so as to see better. Just in time he remembered that he wasn't supposed to be there at all. If Rattles should see him he certainly wouldn't go to his home in spite of the hungry babies Peter knew must be there waiting for a fish. He wouldn't be so foolish as to show where his home was by entering it when he knew that he was being watched. To do such a thing as that wouldn't be good sense.

So just in the very nick of time Peter ducked down among the grasses and peeping between them watched Rattles. He could see the sharp eyes of Rattles looking suspiciously at both banks as he came swiftly on. Peter knew without being told that Rattles was trying to make sure that no one was watching him, and he chuckled as he snuggled down a little closer to the warm earth among the grasses. "I wonder what he would do and say if he knew he was being watched," thought he.

Then, as if Satisfied That No One Saw Him, He Shot Out Into the Air

But Rattles didn't know, and he saw nothing to make him the least bit suspicious. He came straight on until he was right opposite the big sandbank across from Peter. Then he turned and flew straight toward it, and a second later had disappeared. Peter couldn't believe it, but it was so. It seemed somehow as if that bank of sand had swallowed Rattles the Kingfisher. He had disappeared so quickly that Peter hadn't seen exactly where he did go. Peter raised his head and stared across at the sandbank. It was yellow and smooth, and nowhere could he see a hole.

"Great Jumping Jupiter!" exclaimed Peter, and rubbed his eyes that he might look better. But this didn't help him any. Rattles the Kingfisher had disappeared as completely as if he never had been. Peter was still staring foolishly when he saw a few grains of sand trickle down from the very edge of the bank where some grass and weeds hung over the edge. Without thinking why he did it, he ducked down out of sight and then peering between the grasses watched the spot from which he had seen the sand trickle down. Was there a dark spot there just below the edge of the bank half hidden by the grass and weeds? Peter blinked and stared again. Yes, there certainly was a small dark spot there. Could it be a hole? It might be. Peter decided that he would watch it.

He didn't have to watch long. In fact, it was hardly a minute before he saw something move over there. He held his breath. Then what do you think he saw? Why he saw first a big stout spear-like bill thrust out and then a head with a queer rough topknot. It was the head of Rattles the Kingfisher! There was no doubt about this, for no one else has a head like his. For a moment Rattles was perfectly still, looking this way and looking that way up and down the Laughing Brook. Then, as if satisfied that no one saw him, he shot out into the air and was away toward the Laughing Brook, rattling as only he can rattle. There was no doubt in Peter's mind now. He had found the home of Rattles, and it was in a hole in the ground just as he had been told.

"I never!" exclaimed Peter as he sat up and stretched. "I never! Can you beat that! A real bird living in a hole in the ground! I never!"

What more Peter might have said will never be known, for a movement down below in the laughing Brook caught his attention. It was Billy Mink, and it was very clear that Billy had also discovered the home of Rattles the Kingfisher. His bright beady eyes were fixed on that hole in the bank, and he was swimming straight across to the shore just below. Peter wondered what would happen next.

Indian Welfare Before Council

Strong protests regarding the neglect of sick Indians in Saanich reserves and the consequent menace to the whole district were voiced by Saanich councillors at a meeting last night.

There was only one nurse to care for the Indians on several reserves, one of which numbered close to 300 persons, Councillor W. C Kersey stated. He had received complaints from several residents.

"I should like to get more information about this," Dr. J. L. Gayton, medical health officer, said. "It is extremely hard to find out anything about the situation, and much harder to get Indian authorities to do anything about it." He made arrangements to investigate conditions further with Mr. Kersey.

Saanich ambulance had been refused the Indians, the reeve stated, because they could not carry infectious cases. Dr. Gayton commented that there would be difficulties at the local hospitals also, since he did not believe they would accept tubercular cases. There was no doctor in charge locally.

Indian reserves were definitely Federal territory, the doctor stated. The sick were not being properly cared for, and constituted a menace to the district. It was a matter of administration chiefly, he added.

It was learned that Royal Jubilee Hospital had no accommodation for Indian patients, but that St. Joseph's would receive cases as long as there was space in the special wards. At present Sardis was the nearest hospital prepared to care for tubercular Indians.

Final draft of the agreement between A. E. Grant, consulting engineer, and the corporation for the $700,000 sewer project was approved by the council on the motion of Councillor T. Alexander.

It includes the planning of a complete sewage scheme for a primary project as outlined, and will provide mains which will handle a secondary project, which may be improved later. Councillor Kersey registered a dissenting vote.

Welfare institution for kindergarten-age children kept by Mrs. L. Nelson was approved by council on the recommendation of the fire chief, the medical health officer and the building inspector.

Request of one citizen to live in a modern chicken house while he built his own residence was refused. He claimed that he he could not find accommodation in the district. Several other requests for permission to build were sent on to the zoning board for consideration.

Urges More Parks

That British Columbia should develop parks available to the urban population was the contention of Chester P. Lyons, assistant provincial forester, last night at a meeting of Victoria branch of the Natural History Society in the Provincial Library.

Ven. Archdeacon Robert Connell presided. The programme was arranged by the Society for Preservation of Native Plants.

"We should give more attention," Mr. Lyons said, "to areas that are accessible at the present time. Wilderness areas will keep." Large parks in mountain areas, founded 20 years ago, were still hard to reach. Little Qualicum Falls Park, on the other hand, catered to 11,000 visitors last year.

The probability that British Columbia's population would increase, would have more opportunities to visit parks, and would have greater need of such relaxation as it became concentrated in cities, made planning for the future necessary.

School Uses CJVI Quiz Show to Aid Milk for Britain

Yesterday afternoon the pupils of Sir James Douglas School enjoyed a students' version of CJVI's Friday-night quiz show, "What's on My Mind?" which was presented at the school to help raise funds for the Kinsmen "Milk for Britain" Fund.

"What's on My Mind?" is sponsored by Canadian Bakeries, Limited, and is broadcast each Friday from the all-services at Prince Robert House. The show is open to the public and when some of the Sir James Douglas students — namely Ian Firth, Douglas Stewart and Albert Beavis — saw it at Robert House they decided it was just the thing for their afternoon concert at the school.

Arrangements were made with the sponsor to obtain scripts of the programme and these the Sir James Douglas "producers" regrete to suit their needs. Their show resembled the actual broadcast in that it was a big success and it may be the first in a series of similar efforts in which CJVI programmes will form the basis for something new in student activities.

Lewis Withdraws Offer to the A.F.L.

WASHINGTON, May 9 (AP)—The breach in organized labor in the United States yawned wider than ever Monday as John L. Lewis explosively withdrew his United Mine Workers' bid to re-enter the American Federation of Labor and accused "New Deal executives" and the "palace guard" of blocking labor unity for political reasons.

In a bitter letter which is expected to reverberate in the presidential campaign, Lewis said New Deal politicians had given "imperative orders" to keep the mine workers out of the A.F. of L. and that certain members of the A.F. of L. executive council had complied with these "shameful plans to betray the interests of the men and women of labor."

SHIP-BUSTER RETURNS

LONDON (CP). — A 22-year-old fighter-bomber pilot, Sqdn. Ldr. J. L. Bryan, D.F.C. and bar, of Milton Ernest, Bedford, whose personal bag includes more than 50 ships sunk or damaged and three and a half enemy aircraft destroyed, is back on operations after a spell at a headquarters desk.

At the Theatres

ATLAS THEATRE "The Oklahoma Kid," which ends tonight at the Atlas Theatre, has a competent cast headed by Donald Crisp and Rosemary Lane. Others in the cast include Harvey Stephens, Hugh Sothern, Charles Middleton, Edward Pawley, Ward Bond and Lew Harvey. The picture was directed by Lloyd Bacon.

CADET THEATRE "Above Suspicion," the best-selling novel by Helen MacInnes, comes to vivid life on the screen, with Joan Crawford and Fred MacMurray teamed for the first time. The picture, which ends tonight at the Cadet Theatre, is the adventure of a college professor and his bride who undertake a perilous secret mission in Central Europe just prior to the outbreak of war.

CAPITOL THEATRE —The chief theme of "Destination Tokio," now showing at the Capitol Theatre, is based on a sensational exploit by one of Uncle Sam's new 1,500-ton underwater marauders in undertaking a hazardous reconnaissance patrol of Tokio Bay to obtain information necessary to make an air raid on Tojo's home town a success. The U.S.S. Copperfin is cast as that submarine and Cary Grant portrays its captain.

DOMINION THEATRE One of the great romances of the screen, "Intermezzo," is now showing on the screen of the Dominion Theatre. It co-stars lovely Ingrid Bergman and Leslie Howard. Enhanced by a musical background, the film produced by David O. Selznick has a fine supporting cast headed by Edna Best and John Halliday.

OAK BAY THEATRE An illegal but adroit method of double-crossing New York society out of a bankroll is the basis of "Mr. Lucky," R.K.O. Radio's dramatic romance of a big-time gambler and what happened to him. Cary Grant is starred in the exciting film, with Laraine Day as the romantic interest. H. C. Potter directed. The picture ends tonight at the Oak Bay Theatre.

PLAZA THEATRE Jon Hall, Maria Montez and Turhan Bey form a new starring triumvirate in "Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves," an enchanting picturization of the loves, intrigues and wars of ancient Bagdad, elaborately produced by Universal in Technicolor. The film ends tonight at the Plaza Theatre.

RIO THEATRE In a lurong, and exercising an almost uncanny charm, Hedy Lamarr comes to the screen as the glamorous native siren Tondelayo in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's adaptation of "White Cargo." Leon Gordon's noted stage play. She is teamed with Walter Pidgeon in the stark drama of the conflict of human emotions, which ends tonight at the Rio Theatre.

YORK THEATRE "Topper Returns," the mystery-comedy which ends tonight at the York Theatre, is the third of the famous "Topper" stories filmed. Its predecessors were "Topper" and "Topper Takes a Trip." Film "Hostages" Tense And Thrilling Drama

When the war is over, perhaps the greatest heroes will have been the unsung martyrs of the "underground army." In "Hostages," which opens on Friday at the Dominion Theatre, Paramount pays an eloquent tribute to these gallant patriots who are smashing the Nazis—from inside.

This gripping dramatization is based on the best-selling novel of Stefan Heym, which shows how the "ungerground" fights back.

Frank Tuttle directed "Hostages."

Little Theatre Plays

Careful consideration has been given by directors of the Victoria Little Theatre and Dramatic School to the selection and casting of the three one-act plays to be presented tomorrow and Friday at the Little Theatre, Langham Place, Rockland Avenue.

With a view to achieving an artistically satisfactory programme which would at the same time be highly entertaining, quality, balance, blend and variety had to be considered. In choosing a stirring dramatic piece with a touch of fantasy, a costume play with a flavor of Sheridan and a modern, swift-paced comedy, all the elements are present for another first-class production.

The highly talented and experienced casts include Muriel C. Thompson, Grace Tucky, Elizabeth Smith, Noel Cusack, Richard Turpin, Adrian Pecknold, Wendy Lawson, Silvia Chandley, Arthur Long, Alice Oldfield, Doris Lockley, Joan Oldfield, Betty Russell, Fiona Taylor and Joan Pope.

The Little Theatre Orchestra under the direction of William Press will play during the intermission, with the curtain rising at 8:15 sharp. Tickets are obtainable at the Marionette Library.

Settings, lighting and other details of production are in the capable hands of Les Lamb, as production manager; Pat Hannington, stage manager, and Gwynedd Thomas, lights.

Mark Anniversary

Pontifical Benediction, officiated by His Excellency Bishop John C. Cody, assisted by Rev. Father A. McLellan, Father J. A. Gaudette and Father T. Geukers, marked the ninth anniversary of the Sacred Heart Church at Lake Hill, which took place Sunday.

The altar was attractively decorated by the Sisters of the Immaculate Heart Convent. Miss Cote conducted the choir. After benediction the congregation adjourned to the Community Hall, where the ladies of the C.W.L. and of the parish served tea. The president, Mrs. Webb, assisted by Past President Mrs. Heather received the guests.

Invited guests were His Excellency Bishop John C. Cody, Rev. Father A. McLellan, Father Gaudette, Father Geukers, Father L. McLellan, Father Jullion, Father Malte and Father Stringer.

Mrs. O'Connell had charge of the bishop's table, artistically arranged with floral centrepiece set in silver bowl and candelabra. Predominating colors were mauve and white. An enjoyable recitation was given by Mrs. C. Green, of Vancouver, former resident of Victoria. Rev. Father Mangan, parish priest, welcomed the guests.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"THE HUNDRED DAYS" —HISTORY REPEATS

All through history there have been times so critical that the ensuing months could truly be described as fateful.

Such for example as the period between March 20 and June 18, 1815—the period between Napoleon's escape from Elba and the Battle of Waterloo.

"The 100 days" this lapse of time came to be known, a phrase coined by the Comte de Chambord in addressing Louis XVIII.

Again people are talking about "the 100 days"—"The next 100 days will be as important in the history of the world as the 100 days before Waterloo. Then Napoleon met his doom and now Hitler will meet his."

It will take more than 100 days.

Literal or figurative, however, with Russia pressing relentlessly from the East and the other United Nations driving on from the West, with bombs devastating German cities and the German fleet as good as at the bottom of the sea, the next 100 days will surely open the passage from night to dawn.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

DO WE ALL NEED EXTRA VITAMINS?

Today we are all more or less acquainted with the value of vitamins as we see vitamin A correcting eye diseases, vitamin B correcting nervous ailments and poor appetite, vitamin C preventing scurvy, vitamin D preventing rickets. Thus it is safe to say that vitamins are the most important discovery in food and nutrition for many years past.

There is one point, however, that many of us forget and that is that vitamins have always existed and done their part in preventing ailments and preserving health. It is only the discovery of them that is new or recent.

The second point we may not know is that most of us get all the vitamins we need in the daily food we eat, providing in addition to meat, bread and potatoes we get milk, butter, green vegetables and fruits. There is really no need for us to take extra vitamins.

In the British Medical Journal, Drs. G. N. Jenkins and J. Yudkin report their results in testing 178 school children aged 11 and 12, about half of whom had received extra vitamins daily at school for one year. The extra vitamins were 5,000 international units of vitamin A, one mg. of vitamin B1, 25 mg. of vitamin C and 500 international units of vitamin D, these amounts being about one-half the total daily requirements.

What were results obtained? No difference was found between those that had received the vitamins and those who had not in pulse rate, lung expansion, breath holding test, gain in height and weight, and amount of iron in the blood.

Why were there no differences between those who were given the vitamins and those who received no extra vitamins? In the opinion of these investigators and others it was because the children tested had been well or properly fed before the extra vitamins were given.

If you have no infection present but are nervous, shaky, have rheumatic pains, are losing weight, cannot sleep, in other words are not enjoying health, there is nothing that will bring you up quicker than extra vitamins properly prescribed.

If you are well, however, there is no need for extra vitamins to prevent illness.

Names of the six are: Pete Malow, 20; Tom Rezansoff, 25; Fred Autofauff, 23; Lucy Malakoff, 19; Ann Rezansoff, 22; Florence Pereboikin, 20.

Drill Team Gives Outstanding Show

To give their sixth concert in aid of the Sixth Victory Loan drive, the Victoria Girls' Drill Team, directed by Captain N. Foster, followed a rough trail to the Forbidden Plateau, near Courtenay, to perform for soldiers carving a camp out of the wilderness.

In one of the most impressive natural settings of the Island, the girls presented a variety programme, and [illegible] sale of bonds remarkably. One unit was reported to have reached 350 per cent of its quota. The opening number, "The Lord's Prayer," sung by Helen McNaught, brought applause from an audience sitting in the unlighted forest. The sound carried for a mile.

Twinkling footlights were supplied by a portable outfit, and two trucks served as dressing-rooms for the girls.

"I don't know who was the most thrilled," Capt. Foster said, "the audience or the girls. Certainly I don't think they will ever forget that trip. It was a reward for all their hard work."

The concert party of 22 included: Capt. Foster, Chamber of Commerce and Citizens' War Services Committee; Grace McLeod, accompanist; Myrtle and Vickie Lyle, Joyce and Donna Maxwell, Joan and Hazel Pearson, Elaine and June Rawlinson, Lorraine Glass, Alice Stevenson, Gloria Tessaro, Kay Davidson, Margaret Lamont, Mary Williams, Reta Palin, Jean Maynard, Mary MacGregor, Barbara Gurney, Kay Steele and Helen McNaught.

On the return trip the Drill Team stopped off to give a show at Duncan.

Allege Pin-Ball Games Used Here

Voicing strong opposition to the operation in the city of pin-ball machines, and urging that they be removed immediately, a delegation from the Victoria Local Council of Women waited on the police commission.

Mrs. D. L. MacLaurin, chairman of a special committee set up by the organization to investigate the operation of machines, was the spokesman. She told the board that members of the committee had personally investigated and played the machines.

In answer to a question from Mayor McGavin, Mrs. MacLaurin alleged that some of the committee members won on the machines. She classed operation of pin-ball machines as dishonest business and charged it was a school for gambling and its attendant ills.

"Until the City Council passes a by-law prohibiting amusement machines, the police commission has no authority to prohibit them. A slot machine is not necessarily a gambling machine," F. L. Shaw, city solicitor, declared.

Glancing Over Sport—

By JOE DELAHUNTY

NOBODY PICKED BROADCLOTH

Of the 311 contestants in the annual poll called by Frank G. Menke at the Churchill Downs race track at Louisville on the Kentucky Derby not a single sports writer, radio announcer or turf expert picked Broadcloth to run second in the Blue Grass classic. Nobody considered the horse, or even gave him a call for first, second, third, fourth or fifth positions in the big guessing competition, which is conducted each year by my old friend Menke.

Here's how the boys voted on the horses in the Derby last Saturday: Pukka Gin, 91; Stir Up, 60; Challenge Me, 41; Pensive, 29; Platter, 29; Olympic Zenith, 9; Occupy, 8; Black Badge, 7; Alorter, 6; Director J. E., 4; Weyanoke, 4; By Jimminy, 2; Lucky Draw, 2; Bull Weed, 2; Twilight Tear, 2; Free Lance, 2; Bell Reigh, 2; Jezrahel, 1; Miss Keeneland, 1; Bell Buzzer, 1; Fire Power, 1; Whirlabout, 1; Gay Bit, 1; Pressure, 1; Shut Up, 1; Stymie, 1, and Boy Knight, 1.

The boys who do the broadcasting of all the big races during the year, Ted Husing and Jimmy Dolan, of the Columbia Broadcasting Company, were miles out in their selections. Ted went out on the limb and placed the horses this way: 1, Alorter; 2, Royal Prince; 3, Pukka Gin; 4, Olympic Zenith; 5, Free Lance. Here is how Mr. Dolan figured they were going to finish: 1, Bull Weed; 2, Alorter; 3, Pukka Gin; 4, Stir Up; 5, Olympic Zenith. Those selections make this columnist feel proud of himself, especially when my second horse ran first and my first finished up in the show position. My old friend down at the next corner, Pete Sallaway, sports editor of The Times, had the ponies lined up this way: 1, Pukka Gin; 2, Stir Up; 3, Challenge Me; 4, By Jimminy; 5, Olympic Zenith. He hit the time of the race right on the nose, 2:04 1-5, and yours truly was just a second out. However, I had two in the money and Peter just had one, so we are all square. Don't forget, Pete, this sports room likes fish too, so when you come home from that trip and your holidays are over, we expect to hear from you.

ODDS AND ENDS

Remember when: Walter Hagen, 15 years ago today, made the lowest score on record in the British open golf championship, up to that time, when he registered a neat card of 67 on his second round of the 6,738-yard course at Muirfield, Scotland. Henry Cotton, the English pro, shot a 65 in 1934 to set a new record, which still stands. "The Haig" went on to win the tournament, his fourth victory over the best British and American golfers in the business. This scribbler has seen Hagen play many matches on the local courses and considers him the best "showman" in the golfing game right to this day. I covered his matches at Colwood when he played exhibitions with Johnny Farrell and Horton Smith and saw him boom himself to a good round at the Uplands course several years ago, but his tournament partner at that time has slipped my memory. One thing about "The Haig," he didn't care who he kept waiting at the first tee. One time in the Old Country he made His Majesty the King wait to see him tee off for nearly an hour. . . . Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kreller on the birth of a baby daughter from this sports department. Kreller is now in the Old Country with the Canadian Army, but before he left these shores he was one of the most popular and smartest hockey players ever to perform at the "late Willows Arena," and he was a big noise when the Army club went to the Allan Cup final against the Ottawa Commandos the season before last. . . . One of the best-liked members at the Gorge Vale Golf Club is none other than Al Cowx. He loves the game and says when the rest of his golf jibes with his drives he won't be taking his hat off to many of the boys around the club.

FROM HERE AND THERE

Lost: One handicapper, who answers to the name of Paddy. He hasn't been heard of since the eve of the Kentucky Derby. Last seen leaving the sports room of this paper after handing in his last-minute "special" to the editor. He drives a cleaning truck and works in the vicinity of Victoria West. Paddy is Irish, as his nickname denotes, and he has a false leg, but can leap from this room into the next one without the slightest bit of effort. If located within the next 24 hours, hand him over to me for I want to give him a "pep talk" before the running of the Preakness next Saturday afternoon before he gives out any more selections on the ponies to my readers. J.D. was bad enough with his pickings, but Paddy, my boy, you were worse, but we will forgive you if you drop into my department and explain everything so I can alibi to the hundreds of bettors who must have went your way on the blue grass classic in Louisville. . . . Every second person I meet these days on the street tells me that I should be up in the Scoke Hills after missing out on Stir Up last week as I promised. Those hills are lovely and a nice spot for a holiday, but when J.D. moves he will most likely be booming over the Rockies for parts unknown for an indefinite holiday here, there and everywhere. . . . Was talking to "Red" Hemeon the other day and he was telling me about the time he was caddying for Eddie McQuade when the veteran southpaw stroked his way over the first nine at Colwood links in 29 while playing with the late Joe Sayward. That's really shooting golf in any man's company. Mr. Sayward wanted Eddie to finish out the round and try for a course record, but McQuade wasn't interested in any records that day.

Pensive, Stir Up Set for $50,000

Derby Winner and Strong Rival Are Ready for Preakness at Pimlico

BALTIMORE, May 9 (AP).—Pensive, looking fit and ready to run after his lucrative train ride to Louisville and back, arrived at Pimlico today to assume the favorite's role in Saturday's 54th running of the $50,000 added Preakness Stakes.

Calumet Farm's Kentucky Derby winner came on the same train as Bobanet stable's Gay Bit and Mrs. A. J. Abel's Granja Image, both also-rans at Churchill Downs.

He and the other two colts were vanned from suburban Mt. Washington Station to Pimlico, where two other Derby starters, Green stable's Stir Up and A. C. Ernst's Alorter, were awaiting them. Skytracer, the only other Louisville contender eligible for the Preakness was not shipped to Baltimore.

Meanwhile, at least six other three-year-olds were listed as possible starters for Saturday's second leg of the triple crown.

Two of them, W. L. Brann's Picotee, and Hal Price Headley's Megogo, finished well back in today's Survivor Stakes.

A third Preakness possibility was George D. Widener's Platter who worked out in New York today with a final decision hinging upon the results.

Others under consideration for the mile-and-three-sixteenth Preakness include Mrs. Donald H. Peter's Bull Dandy.

New Pitcher With Sailors

JIMMY Ilgamells, of Hamilton, Ont., who will be pitching for the Navy baseball team this coming season. He is shown here working out with the bluejackets at Admirals Road field and has already been impressive in training sessions, according to Manager Lieutenant Tony Hamilton. Jimmy is 21 and last year played with the Galt Terriers, junior champions of that district, while the season previous he was with the Hamilton Sovereign Potters. The youngster has plenty of "stuff" and is expected to win several games for the sailors when the campaign gets under way. The chances are he may be given the starting assignment next Saturday, when the league starts operations, against the Army at the Athletic Park at 3 o'clock. The opening ceremonies will commence at 2:30 and the Navy Band will be present, while Mayor Andrew McGavin will be on hand to officiate.

McCarthy Back As Yanks' Boss

NEW YORK, May 9 (AP).—Manager Joe McCarthy resumed active leadership of his world champion New York Yankees today after a month's absence because of illness by observing, "If I can do as good as Art Fletcher did, we'll have the pennant in the Fall."

While Marse Joe was holding forth in the Yankees' downtown headquarters, Coach Fletcher was sending the players through a drill at the stadium in preparation for tomorrow's first inter-sectional series with Detroit Tigers. The champs have won six straight and are only a game and a half behind the pacing St. Louis Browns.

Cup-Tie Match This Evening At Local Park

Victoria Machinery Depot and the Army will battle it out this evening at Macdonald Park at 6:15 for the Solarium Cup in the First Division of the Victoria and District Football League. Both teams are well matched and, according to the respective managers, will be out at full strength for this important fixture for the handsome silverware, donated for the first time last year by Alderman John Worthington. The city councillor will be in attendance and will present the trophy when the final whistle blows. Mrs. A. Pitkethley, president of the Junior Solarium League, to which the entire proceeds will be turned over, will also be present. By the way, the shipbuilders are the defending champions and, another thing, they have not forgotten that defeat in the Province Cup series at the hands of the soldiers, so don't think for a second they won't be out for revenge. V.M.D. will have the following players stripped for the match: Evans, Barnswell, Leggett, Perkins, C. Robbins, Robinson, Parks, G. Robbins, Payne, J. Robbins, Morgan, French, Travis and Oakman.

Club Tournament To Commence at Colwood Sunday

Brian Hunnings will start off [illegible] at the Colwood Golf Club next Sunday when a comparatively large field is expected to face the starter in the 18-hole qualifying round. The present titleholder picked up the crown last year by defeating Jimmy Simpson in the final. It was announced yesterday by club officials that the starting field may arrange their own matches and starting times and that all flights will be played on three-quarters of handicaps. Those wishing to enter may file their names with George Kerr at the clubhouse any time this week. Post entries will be accepted.

Walker Is Top Batter

Brooklyn Fielder Hitting Ball Hard

NEW YORK, May 9 (AP).—Dixie Walker, of Brooklyn, is the No. 1 hitter in the National League as well as the people's choice in Flatbush with his league-leading .421 average on the eve of the Eastern clubs first Western invasion. Dixie has played in 15 games and clouted 24 hits in 57 times at bat.

With Stan Musial, of the Cards, the 1943 king and last week's leader, losing 68 points and dropping to third, at .379, the runner-up spot went to Joe (Ducky) Medwick, of the New York Giants, with .381.

Medwick continued to confound his critics, who had counted him out after he missed the .300 circle last season, by moving from sixth place to second. Medwick also tied Frenchy Bordagaray, of Brooklyn, for scoring the most runs with 14 and hit seven doubles to pull up even with Buster Adams, of the Phils, and Musial.

Howie (Stretch) Schultz, of the Brooks, continued to be the power man in the circuit. The towering rookie who spent most of last season playing first base for St. Paul in the American Association drove across six more scores to boost his runs batted in total to 20. Although he failed to hit a home run last week he retained the league lead with four.

CHICAGO, May 9 (AP).—Nick Etten, the New York Yankees' 29-year-old first baseman, led American League batters with a powerful .476 mark in averages computed through Sunday's games, but he had to share the statistical spotlight with the St. Louis Browns' young pitcher, Jack Kramer.

Kramer, a 26-year-old United States Navy dischargee who won eight of the 10 games he hurled for Toledo, of the American Association, last season, is out to become the first 20-game winner of the 1944 campaign. He already has collected five victories without a defeat and has struck out 25 batsmen to lead the league on both counts.

SCORES FIGHT VICTORY

NEW YORK, May 9 (CP).—Pal Giordano, 148 1-4, Ottawa, won a six-round decision over Sonny Wilson, 153 1-2, Detroit, in a fast boxing bout at the Broadway Arena here tonight.

Louis Says Baer Was the Toughest

World's Fight Champion Nominates Californian—Highly Rates Conn

LONDON, May 9 (AP).—Sgt. Joe Louis, heavyweight champion of the world, surprised American soldiers and others by naming Max Baer today as the toughest opponent he ever met.

He nominated Baer in an all-opponent team selected for Stars and Stripes, servicemen's publication.

Billy Conn, who came close to lifting Joe's crown in 1941—the challenger he probably will meet first in the postwar era—was named five times in the mythical line-up, however.

Louis rated Conn not only as the smartest of all his opponents, but also the fastest, the possessor of the most effective left, and the one with the best offence and best defence.

In another surprise, Joe named Jim Braddock as having the most potent right—not Max Schmeling who flattened him in 12 rounds in 1936.

"I pitched more strikes against Baer than I did against a half dozen ordinary opponents," Louis said in explaining his choices.

The champ went on: "Any other man would have lasted less than a round, just as Schmeling did in our second fight.

"If Schmeling's right carried the explosiveness Braddock's did, I never would have been able to answer the bell after the fifth round. Remember, Max landed his Sunday punches for 12 rounds before he could put me away.

"Braddock hit me once in the first round, and had he been able to follow up his advantage, I might never have been champion of the world."

Louis stopped Braddock for the title in the eighth round at Chicago, June 22, 1937.

As for the hardest single punch Louis ever absorbed, he considers it a right which Al Delaney landed on his chin in 1934, nearly cracking his jaw.

On the other side, Joe said the hardest punch he ever landed was the one that chilled Paulino Uzcudun in the fourth round in 1935.

LONDON (CP).—Sir Gavin Simonds, 60, recently appointed a lord of appeal in ordinary, has been granted a life barony and will take the style and title of Baron Simonds of Sprasholt in the County of Southampton.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, May 9 (AP)—Buyers remained decidedly selective in today's market and, while assorted favorites managed to make new tops for the year or longer, many leaders were unable to crawl out of the minus column.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was unchanged at 51.8, but the industrial index retrieved the .1 loss of yesterday, which was the first recession since April 24. Transfers totaled 620,040 shares compared with 585,510 the day before.

Petroleum issues were aided by a 25-cent special disbursement of Gulf Oil Corp. Pullman, up 2¼ in the preceding session following a Federal Court order to divorce either the manufacturing or sleeping car business, lost ⅜ of a point. Austin Nichols Preferred dropped 2½ as the result of profit taking.

Brokers noted the short interest on the Stock Exchange of 1,090,581 shares at the end of April was up only 62,092 shares from the March 31 total.

At peaks for 1944 in the day's proceedings were Hudson Motors, Great Northern, Standard Oil (N.J.) and Consolidated Film Preferred.

Sport Shorts From Britain

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 9 (CP).—This thick-set fellow who controls the destinies of the Royal Navy in the South Atlantic, Vice-Admiral Sir Robert Burnett, once went down before the flailing fists of the great Jim Driscoll.

Sir Robert, appointed commander-in-chief, South Atlantic, is one of the most arresting personalities in the navy. He was an out-standing, all-round athlete in his younger days, with boxing his chief delight. He was 32 when he made his last public appearance and lost to Driscoll in an exhibition match.

He once won the sabre championship at a royal tournament and much of his off-duty time these days is taken up in refereeing Rugby and soccer, field hockey, water polo and boxing, his favorite sports. He also has refereed top-notch matches at the famed National Sporting Club.

Sir Robert was promoted vice-admiral after only two years as a rear admiral, just 20 days after his cruiser squadron hunted down the Scharnhorst.

Only jockey to have won all classic races, Petty Officer Tommy Weston will be riding this season for the first time since 1939 when he joined the navy. He will be up on Lord Derby's mounts when leave permits.

Tommy's classic victories include two Derby triumphs, both for Lord Derby. He won on Sansovine in 1924 and Hyperion in 1933.

Incidentally, classic races besides the Derby are the Thousand and Two Thousand Guineas, the Oaks and the St. Leger.

Lieut. Bernard Destremau, young French Davis Cup player who was stroking his way to the international lawn tennis front just before the war, has reached the Fighting French Forces in North Africa after escaping from Paris.

Son of a French general, Destremau was forced to delay his escape attempt several times but finally slipped away from his post in the foreign office. Under German domination, Destremau kept his tennis eye by winning the French championship from Christian Boussus in 1942.

The Jockey Club's ban on horses over the age of six years created an unprecedented situation for the 1944 season just opening. Two and three-year-olds will have fields very nearly to themselves.

Shortage of older horses is most acute at Newmarket where of 450 horses in training (approximately a third of the total for the entire country) only 40 are more than three years old.

The Duchess of Norfolk, who since 1942 has trained her racers in her park at Arundel Castle, has laid down new gallops for permanent use after the war. They cover one and a quarter miles.

The duchess, who occasionally takes to the saddle to gallop her horses in training, has 18 for this season, including 12 two-year-olds.

Reviews of Books Are Described

Book reviewing today is an honest attempt to tell the reading public what a book has to offer and by skilful[illegible] the author has treated his subject, Mrs. Ross Napier, of the Victoria Public Library, told the Victoria and Islands Branch Canadian Authors' Association at a meeting held Monday night at the Y.W.C.A.

Speaking on the Essentials of a Book Review, Mrs. Napier related the history of reviewing from the early 19th Century to the present day. In that time critics [illegible] ess of style, showed the ire of poet and author with their severity but modern commentators were more kind. A reviewer must deserve the book after careful perusal of it, crystallizing in its qualities and pass the judgment as to its value.

Book reviewing is now at each [illegible] Library [illegible] Mrs. Napier read some letters from [illegible] Kate Washington of Hollywood, Edmonton, Western Canada [illegible] and RO. Lloyd Fulton [illegible].

Kiwanians Build Things of Spirit

Kiwanians are builders, not in material things but in the imponderable qualities of the spirit, Will Reeder, lieutenant-governor of District No. 1 Pacific Northwest Kiwanis told club members yesterday at the regular luncheon held at the Empress Hotel.

[illegible] out a seven-point programme, he said, of which the most important was community leadership to reduce juvenile delinquency and safeguard the morals of youth and home.

First aim must be to speed the victory and for this every Kiwanian must be urged to work. They must also rededicate themselves to the support of the churches and finally Kiwanis should publicize their stand on freedom of opportunity and free enterprise, he stressed.

It is not enough to defeat Hitler, he declared. While fighting this war we must be laying the foundation for a new world and replace the negative policies of destruction with a policy of construction. Otherwise other wars will be fought.

He urged everyone to [illegible] a new world otherwise there would be the only harvest. Mr. Reeder said one of the most [illegible] is behind Hitler today are that nations were breaking up because members of families saw so little of one another.

What Today Means

TAURUS

If May 10 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. and from 8:30 to 10:30 p.m. The danger periods are from 6:30 to 10:30 a.m., from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. and from 10:30 p.m. until midnight.

"Passing the buck" will be a popular pastime with a considerable number of people today, so you will have to be constantly vigilant if you wish to keep anyone from trying to pass it to you. It will be a decided mistake to unprotestingly assume the responsibility of someone else's mistake. Before agreeing with anyone's contention you had better make sure that it is logically sound and justified. Comparatively few people will not have a good reason for whatever they do today, so should anything not meet with your approval it might be advisable for you to do a little investigating before you start in criticizing. Married and engaged couples, and those matrimonially inclined, will do well to remember that "error of opinion may be tolerated where reason is left free to combat it."

If a woman and May 10 is your birthday, you are apt to be overly given to work harder for other people's interests than for your own which, in time, is likely to prove to be a mistake. It is better for you to overrate the value of your services than to underrate them, but this does not mean that you should not recognise your limitations. Be careful never to allow anyone else's dissatisfaction with what they have to do or their working hours influence you. It might be well to realise whoever lays down on their job seldom has it very long. As a trained nurse, dietician, social welfare worker, restaurant operator, business manager, teacher, broker, demonstrator, illustrator, painter, actress, musician, singer, or through doing your part on the home front to back the men in the various fighting zones, you will probably reap many well-merited rewards and make a reputation that will be second to none. Marriage should provide the ways and means of freeing you from financial worries, and it will, in all likelihood, be instrumental in bringing into your life a great deal of happiness.

The child born on May 10 generally develops into a very independent youth who knows what he wants to do and usually succeeds in doing it. A natural-born "go-getter," parents need have no fear that the average Taurian youngster will ever be satisfied to go through life in a lackadaisical fashion.

If a man and May 10 is your natal day, an exceptionally fertile brain should prove to be your most invaluable asset and the medium through which you ought to win distinction. You must never permit any experiences to make you unduly cynical, unless you are willing to run the risk of becoming decidedly unpopular both in your home and abroad. As a merchant, manufacturer, financier, business executive, sales agent, publisher, journalist, author, engineer, inventor, clergyman, scientist, skilled mechanic, contractor, builder, publicity expert, agriculturist, horticulturist, actor, doctor, jurist, or as one of your country's patriotic fighting men, your efforts should meet with many merited rewards.

Your Health and Your Weight

Jas. W. Barton, M.D.

GLAND TYPES OF OVERWEIGHT REQUIRE A REDUCING DIET

A physician in charge of a metabolism clinic who sees hundreds of overweights and underweights during the course of a year, gives every case a metabolism test on their first visit to the clinic. The metabolism test shows the rate at which the body processes are working. If too rapid an overactive thyroid gland is not pouring out enough juice or extract. Thus, the metabolism test is often of great help in deciding the daily amount and kind of food that should be eaten by the overweight or underweight.

In the case of the overweight a little thyroid extract is given daily which increases the rate at which the body processes work, creating more heat and thus removing some of the fat stored in and on the body.

In the underweight more food is given to make up for the extra speed of the body processes which are using up the food and not allowing even the necessary fat to be stored in and on the body because the body needs some fat tissue.

However, lack of thyroid extract is not the only kind of gland overweight found by this physician. [illegible] weight, because they are underactive, are the adrenal glands situated one above each kidney, the sex glands, and the pituitary gland lying on the floor of the skull. In some cases more than one gland is at fault which means that in addition to the thyroid (key gland) extract, other gland extracts may be required to reduce weight in the one individual.

This physician although a gland specialist—endocrinologist—does not depend upon gland extracts alone to reduce weight even when the shape of the body and the location of the excess fat points to lack of a certain gland juice. After placing the overweight upon an ordinary diet and certain gland extracts, if the loss of weight is not satisfactory, the 1,200-calorie diet is used:

Breakfast: One sliced orange; 1 slice whole wheat bread; 1 hard-boiled egg; coffee with skim milk, no sugar.

Lunch: Vegetable soup; lettuce and tomato salad; cauliflower; 1 slice whole wheat bread; 1 fresh sliced peach; tea with lemon, no sugar.

Supper: Roast beef, lean; stewed celery; sliced beets; lettuce salad; 1 slice whole wheat bread; 1 baked apple; coffee, skim milk, no sugar.

Where the 1,200-calorie diet does not reduce weight at a satisfactory rate, the 800-calorie diet is used:

Breakfast: One-half grapefruit; 1 egg, 1 slice bread (medium thick); 1 glass skim milk.

Lunch: One serving of lean meat; one-half potato; 2 average servings of vegetables; 1 square butter 1 inch by 1 inch; 1 serving fresh fruit; orange, pear, grapefruit, or one-half apple.

Supper: One average serving vegetables; 1 egg; cottage cheese, 2 tablespoons; milk, 3 ounces.

When the overweight is in girls and boys at the puberty age, the extract of the sex gland is used in medium and severe cases of overweight but not in boys and girls just slightly overweight. Sex gland extracts are used in cases of overweight, following pregnancy particularly in extreme cases of overweight where the excess weight does not gradually disappear.

It is only fair to say that overweight does not affect puberty or the menopause but lack of sex gland extract does cause overweight. This is true of the other ductless glands also—thyroid, pituitary, adrenal. Lack of their juice causes various types of overweight; the overweight does not cause lack of gland juice. However, as mentioned several times before, even where the lack of gland juice is mostly to blame for overweight the food intake must be reduced to obtain satisfactory results.

Claim Confession

CRYSTAL CITY, Tex., May 9 (AP).—Deputy Sheriff Garrett Barnes said tonight Soyla Villegos, 25, had signed a confession that he killed his wife in Chicago and sent her body to Los Angeles in a trunk.

Barnes quoted the man as confessing that he killed Mrs. Louis Villegos by hitting her with his fist on the back of the head following an argument in a Chicago apartment April 28.

A trunk containing a woman's body was opened in Los Angeles last Friday. A way bill showed the trunk was sent from Chicago April 30 by a "John Lopez" to the same name here.

Girl Stabbed to Death at School

NEW YORK, May 9 (AP).—Wearing masks, two 12-year-old school girls today fatally stabbed Margaret Patton, nine, before horrified onlookers in a school recreation room here because, police quoted them as saying, "She tattled on us." All three girls were negroes.

While one assailant held Margaret's arms, the other plunged a long, thin-bladed letter-cutter into her chest. They fled as other pupils and teachers stood too shocked momentarily to move.

Police arrested Madeline Kirkland on a homicide charge and Eileen Foster on a delinquency charge shortly afterward.
